U. S. SHOE MACHINE WAR BEGUN

The United States Government has opened war to-day on the United Shoe Machinery Company (the Shoe Machinery Trust), and the Federal Grand Jury in Boston was summoned to begin work next Tuesday in the case.

Orders for the investigation by the Grand Jury came direct from Washington to District Attorney French from Attorney-General Wickersham. Federal agents have been at work five months gathering evidence against the company.

United States District Attorney Asa P. French said:

"The investigation has been in regard to possible violations of the Sherman anti-trust law. It has been going on for four or five months quietly, the matter having been brought to my attention by Mr. Wickersham. I don't know who first called it to his attention. The acts of the company all over the United States in interstate commerce and foreign commerce have been looked into for the purpose of the investigation.

Before Grand Jury.

"The Grand Jury of the Circuit Court will convene next week, but this does not mean that if any indictments were found the trial would be in the Circuit Court. Probably not—because the next regular term of the court is in January. Any further steps against the company will be taken in Boston."

When informed that the Federal Grand Jury was about to investigate the doings of the company, Attorney-General Swift said:

"This is in conformity with what I have heard—that the Federal government was investigating the Shoe Machinery Company. The length of time which it has taken the Federal government to gather the evidence to submit to the Grand Jury shows the enormity of the work. The investigation by the Federal government will not necessarily interfere with the investigation which I am carrying on."

The State of Massachusetts has already started war on the trust, Governor Foss having sent two special messages to the Legislature on the question, and having directed Attorney-General Swift to begin an investigation. The legislative committee on rules will give a hearing to-morrow at the State House on the shoe machinery questions raised by Governor Foss, and this is expected to be the opening gun in the war.

Federal Inquiry a Surprise.

That the Federal government was at work investigating the methods by which the United Shoe Machinery Company controls a virtual monopoly of the manufacturing of shoe-making machinery came to-day as a complete surprise. Assistant United States Attorney-General Gregg has been in charge of this investigation, which has just been completed. District Attorney French gave out an official statement to-day setting forth that all the evidence will be given to the Federal Grand Jury.

Complaints that the Shoe Machinery Trust was a monopoly in restraint of trade have long been made in magazine articles and during political campaigns, but nothing has ever come of it in the way of prosecution by the State or the Federal governments. The company, which has its principal plant in Beverly, owns the patents for most of the shoemaking machinery in use in the United States.

Never Sells; Just Leases.

It manufactures machines and leases them to shoe manufacturers, but refuses to sell them. It leases them at its own terms, as there is practically no competition. Thomas G. Plant, the Roxbury shoe manufacturer, backed by Western manufacturers, started a war on the Shoe Machinery Trust, having a complete set of patents for shoemaking machinery, but he was bought out by the trust, which took over his shoe plant. The price was said to be anywhere up to $10,000,000.

Sidney W. Winslow is president of the United Shoe Machinery Company, the principal offices of which are in Boston.

DARING FEATS PERFORMED BY WOMEN IN AIR

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., July 26.—The most daring air feats ever performed in America by a woman were seen at the aerodrome here to-day, when Miss Harriet Quimby made three circuits of the Mineola field and when at the height of seventy-five feet sailed in a perfect figure eight. Miss Matilda Moisant, sister of the late John B. Moisant, also made several good flights.

FOUR DROWNING BOYS ARE SAVED

Risking his life in order to rescue from drowning four boys from the deep and treacherous basin in the rear of Washington Chambers, on Washington avenue, Winthrop, to-day, and with no assistance except that from a little ten-year-old girl, James P. Barrett, nineteen years of age, of New York, with great difficulty rescued Frederick L. and John A. McInnis, Charles Yates and Arthur Gordon, all of Shirley street. All of the boys are under ten years of age.

Barrett was out fishing in company with ten-year-old Muriel James and Colby Briden. A short distance away in a leaky boat were the boys. Suddenly it sank. Barrett dived into the water. He brought back one of the boys to his duty. He then set out for the others, who grabbed him about the neck, making him almost helpless. Barrett shouted to the little girl in his boat, who brought the boat to him, and he managed to draw the boys into the boat.

Barrett is spending the Summer with the family of M. A. O'Brien at No. 229 Washington avenue.

ROSEBERY CALLED TO CONFER WITH KING

LONDON, July 26.—The veto bill crisis took a surprising turn to-day when King George summoned Lord Rosebery to Buckingham Palace for a two hours' conference. Although Rosebery has not been taking an active part in the constitutional battle in the present Parliament, he was the author of a resolution introduced in the previous Parliament which was designed to reform the House of Lords. The Rosebery compromise resolution, like the Lansdowne resolution, failed to appease the radical Liberals, who rejected it.

NEW TUG SATURN LAUNCHED TO-DAY

The new Tug Saturn of the Boston Tow Boat Company's fleet was launched at 11:30 to-day from the yards of the R. C. Greene Company in Chelsea and was christened by Miss Elsie Winsor, daughter of F. I. Winsor, who has been manager of the former concern since 1855. The Saturn is the biggest boat of her class in Boston harbor and was built especially for service in docking and hauling out great transatlantic steamships. She is of wood and is ninety-five feet long with twenty-three feet beam.

COTTON REVISION BILL INTRODUCED

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The cotton revision bill, adopted by the Democratic House caucus, was introduced in the House to-day by Representative Underwood, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, and referred to that committee, which will report it favorably probably next Friday.

BOSTON COMPANY GETS SUBWAY WORK

NEW YORK, July 26.—The Metropolitan Contracting Company of Boston was to-day awarded the contract for that section of the new subway extending from Fourteenth street to Twenty-sixth street, the Metropolitan Company's bid of $2,419,127 being the lowest.

PRISONERS ARE TAKEN BY REDS

The Red Army to-day scored on the Blue by sending its cavalry in the fall of the enemy and bagging nine prisoners. This took place at Andover. The Blue are camped there, having made the march to that place from Tewkesbury during the forenoon.

Major Schmits, commander of the Red cavalry, returned to Middleton after its audacious dash, and reported to General Pew. He was complimented by General Pew.

The Blue Army is camped at North Andover and it is expected that the decisive battle of the war will be fought there to-morrow. The battle will take place between Wilson's Corner and the timber lands toward Boxford.

This battle will probably be known as the battle of Den Rock. This famous rock is 100 feet in height. It recalls the battle of Gettysburg where the Devil's Den and Round Top figured.

Camp on High Ground.

After the Blue Army reached North Andover General Clark threw out strong outposts, covering the Andover and Wood chuck Hill roads. The rising was pitched on the high grounds at North Andover at Wilson's Corner and Turnpike street. From this point there is a fine view of the Lawrence mills and the Merrimac River bridge.

Every road was picketed because of the close proximity of the Red Army.

Two Reds were captured riding on a car near the Blue encampment. They were privates from Company K, Ninth Regiment. Private Miller of Company E, First Corps Cadets, spied the two men. They had their lists off.

"Hello, you Reds," remarked Private Miller.

The feature of the day at Middleton where the Reds were encamped was the capture of Reservoir Hill in a forty-five minute fight with men of their own force. Three companies of the Fifth Regiment, M, I and K, were posted on the hill and the Ninth attempted to take the summit, and finally did. The Ninth was commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel John H. Dunn.

"We're not Reds," they said.

They were made to produce their hats and as they bore the number "9," that settled the matter, and the two young

BRINDAMOUR DIVES OFF BRIDGE, SHACKLED

Brindamour, who is performing this week at the Hub Theatre, this noon dived handcuffed from a staging erected on the drawbridge of the Harvard bridge, forty feet into the water below, and arose three seconds later to the surface unshackled. A crowd of 1000 spectators, from street cars, wagons and automobiles, watched Brindamour has broken out of more than 600 jails, including Sing Sing, Joliet and Atlanta. He has dived many times from the most difficult places and surroundings. It took him but 7½ seconds to break out of Sing Sing. At the Hub he is amazing audiences with his perplexing parlor act.

YOU MAY BELIEVE THIS IF YOU WANT TO

Tom Larazza, one of the crew of the Provincetown Dolphin striker Rita A. Viator, which arrived in Boston to-day with seventy-eight large fish aboard, was swept overboard and back on board by one sea while fishing for swordfish off the Georges Banks. He was in the "pulpit," at the tip end of the bowsprit, with a harpoon in his hands when the schooner struck her nose under water and Tom was washed out of the cask, and the same wave came aboard to leeward and left him shaken up and full of water in the scuppers.

WEST SIDE BALL PARK, Chicago, July 26.—The Rustlers and Cubs were billed to book up in a double-header this afternoon, starting time being 1:30. The athletes of both teams were anxious to get into action again after their three days' rest.

It was expected that "Hopper" Griffin and Weaver or Perdue would do the pitching for Boston this afternoon. Cole and Richie were due to work for the league leaders.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

POPE'S ILLNESS AFFECTS HEART

ROME, July 26.—The heavy cold from which Pope Pius is suffering caused him extreme difficulty in breathing to-day, and is having a serious effect on his heart.

Both sisters of the Pontiff spent part of the night at the Vatican, but they went to their apartments nearby to-day upon assurances from Dr. Petacci that the patient's fever had slightly decreased.

The Pope's entourage is thoroughly alarmed over his condition, in view of the feeble condition in which he has been for several months. Though he is mentally clear and able to conduct the affairs of state in an able manner, he is physically very weak, and even his physicians fear that any fever of long duration in conjunction with his advanced age might result in his death.

TWENTY BURNED BY A LIGHTNING BOLT

MONTICELLO, N. Y., July 26.—A bolt of lightning struck the house of Charles Garofsky to-day and twenty Summer boarders were burned. All the party were sitting in the hall through which the bolt passed and each was burned on top of the head. One woman is still unconscious.

LONDON, JULY 26.—THE EVENING TIMES PRINTS A REPORT "UNDER RESERVE" THAT THE ADMIRALTY HAS WARNED ALL BRITISH SHIPS TO BE READY FOR ACTION IN VIEW OF THE MOROCCAN CRISIS.

LONDON, July 26. Official announcement was made by the Foreign Office this afternoon that the proposed visit of the English Atlantic fleet to Norwegian waters had been abandoned as a result of an important conference of Naval Minister McKenna, Sir Edward Grey, M. Cambon, the French Ambassador to England, and Lord Kitchener. The conference related to the Moroccan situation.

LONDON, July 26.—War with Germany, it was said to-day in diplomatic circles, could only be averted by Germany backing down from her position with France on the Moroccan situation.

The official powers of Great Britain, from the King down, concentrated their minds to-day on the grave situation. It is no secret that England's navy has been ordered to be ready at a moment's notice to get into action.

SHIPS WARNED TO BE READY FOR ACTION

All British ships, the Evening Times declares, have been warned by the admiralty to be ready for sudden orders in view of the Morocco crisis.

The stock market, that had sagged at the ominous war news, was somewhat encouraged this afternoon by a report that Germany had already taken a step toward war, by removing her warships from Agadir.

The crux of the whole matter, it was made plain this afternoon, is that England will never consent to allow Germany to establish a naval base on the west coast of Africa. That is what Germany has been after and that is what roused England when the demand, regarded by France as Shylockian, called England into the controversy.

Because of the gravity of the situation King George cancelled his proposed visit to the Goodwood race to-day, and unless the situation clears he will not go into Cowes on Saturday, as he intended.

Englishmen United.

The solidarity of the Anglo-French entente was shown to-day by conferences between Sir Francis Bertie, the British ambassador to France, and Paul Cambon, the French ambassador to England.

England stands as a unit on the whole matter. This was also shown by the fact that the men who have the situation in hand represent all elements of the government. These men are Premier Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, secretary of foreign affairs, and Chancellor David Lloyd George, who represents the radical end of the British Cabinet.

Special conferences were held, attended by all of these men this afternoon.

It was regarded as significant that King Alfonso of Spain came into London to-day and had a talk with Sir Edward Grey.

The general opinion was, this evening, that the matter had reached a climax that would either result in action at once or that would soften under conciliatory action by Germany.

Call Ambassador to Conference.

Evidence of the feverishness of the situation was shown both in and out of official circles to-day.

The British Ambassador to France has been called to London to confer with the home government over the acute Moroccan situation.

The newspapers of Germany declare that it is impossible for that nation to modify her demands for Congo territory on the Atlantic coast of Africa, and London declares just as emphatically that England will not tolerate such a thing.

France herself was shocked at the demands and asserted at once that concessions would be declared off if Germany persisted.

The truth of the matter is that suddenly like a flash from a clear sky, has come a lightning bolt that may kindle war.

Financial Centres Moved.

The biggest financial concerns of Europe have been greatly disturbed by the situation. The London Stock Exchange, the bourses of Berlin and Paris—the real barometers of national serenity—have manifested a very perturbed spirit.

Lloyd's, the greatest institution of an insurance character in the world—that will insure almost anything on earth—did a big business to-day in taking war risks.

But this concern gave notice that after to-day no risks would be accepted after August 15. This one fact was one of the most startling to the great mass of people of any incident in connection with the Franco-German imbroglio.

England suddenly finds herself dominating the alarming situation. King George is greatly interested in the matter and is being kept in close touch with every co

ITALIANS OBSERVE FEAST OF ST. ANN

MARLBORO, July 26.—The Italian speaking residents of Marlboro to-day celebrated the Feast of St. Ann on a very elaborate scale, with divine worship, parades, "open house," and dancing. This evening fireworks and a band concert are on the program. The feast will close with High Mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, followed by a procession in which some five hundred persons joined.

SAYS HUSBAND GAVE HER KEYS AND LEFT

Mrs. Annie E. Rourke asked for temporary alimony from John F. Rourke pending the result of her divorce suit, which will be heard in East Cambridge, when she appeared before Judge Jenney in the Suffolk Superior Court to-day. "He met me on the street, she testified, "and handed me the keys of the house saying, 'You can take your kid and go your own way. I don't want to see you again.' He has never been home since and I don't know why he left." Judge Jenney ordered Rourke to pay his wife $5 a week.

LOSE PLEA TO HAVE NEW STATION SITE

The Railroad Commission, in an order issued to-day, declines to recommend to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company that it change the location of its station at Neponset thereby diminishing a perilous hospital by the Neponset Improvement Association and several residents of Neponset, asking that the station be located at a point near the new highway crossing the New Haven location.

FIND HARVESTER TRUST SHIELDED

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Chairman Stanley threw another bomb into the trust ranks at the Steel investigation 40-day when he produced what he said is a copy of a report made by a special attorney of the Department of Justice in 1908, recommending that the International Harvester Company be prosecuted under the Sherman anti-trust law.

The report says that the affairs of the Harvester Company and the Steel Trust are closely allied and that for a number of years the Steel Trust had been making rebates of $3 per ton on steel used by the Harvester Company. Attorney-General Wickersham and former Attorney-General Bonaparte were immediately subpoenaed to explain to the committee why there has been no prosecution of the Harvester Company.

Chairman Stanley announced that he expects to show that the same group of financiers, including J. P. Morgan, is behind both the Steel Trust and the Harvester concern. The report gives a graphic account of the formation of the alleged Harvester Trust. The report says in part:

"In July, 1902, at the suggestion of George W. Perkins the McCormicks, Deerings, Jones and Glessners went to New York and entered into negotiations for the purpose of effecting a consolidation of the McCormick, Deering, Plano, Champion and Milwaukee companies. The general terms of a consolidation were agreed upon. The parties went home and caused inventories of their plants to be made.

"About two weeks later they all returned to New York. George W. Perkins, of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., conducted the negotiations and devised and executed the plan finally agreed upon. On August 12, 1902, the International Harvester Company was organized under the laws of New Jersey, with a capital of $120,000,000, which was about $14,000,000 in excess of the aggregate of the inventories. On the same day all the capital stock of the constituent companies were conveyed to one William C. Lane as trustee, and other equities by him conveyed to the International Harvester Company. At the time all of the capital stock of the International Harvester Company was issued and delivered to William C. Lane as trustee.

"On the next day Lane entered into a stockholders' voting trust agreement with Cyrus J. McCormick, James Deering and George W. Perkins.

"Most of the $9,200,000 of capital stock gathered on the market was purchased by John D. Rockefeller.

"Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who was assistant attorney-general at the time of the report, was also subpoenaed to-day and took the stand.

Senator Kenyon identified the Town report.

"What was your impression about it and the need for prosecution?" asked Chairman Stanley.

"I was heartily in favor of continuing the investigation," replied Kenyon, "to clear up some of the points in the documents."

RED ARMY BAGS NINE PRISONERS

men were taken into custody.

The Red cavalry made an advance of six miles from their camp at Middleton, and sighted the Blue outposts near Andover Academy. The Reds found that division headquarters of the Blues were pitched near the Phillips Inn. The Reds had no right to make an attack on the headquarters, but they astonished the men there.

Then the Red men rode down the main street of Andover and in front of the Public Library they ran across a young Blue soldier who was coming out of a drug store. They took him in a second, he never thinking that any Reds were near.

Sharp clashes marked the entire march of the Blue Army from its camp at Tewksbury to Andover.

From the time the Blues started from their camp at 7 o'clock and trotted or trudged through the dust until they halted and camped in the Andover section, infantrymen from the Red Army harassed them.

Flying squads from the Red Army would make sudden dashes and surprise detachments of the marching forces of General F. D. Clarke's regiment. Then there would be exchanges of shots until an umpire asked the skirmish to cease.

Cutting Off the Blues.

The object of the Blue Army is to keep open its line of communication between it and the main army (theoretically at Portland. The Reds are trying to cut off the Blues from the main body.

The pivotal point is Andover Heights, where the bridges that span the wide Merrimac are of vital importance in the war game that is being played. Whoever gets those bridges, it may be said, wins.

The Blue Army made a forced march of seven or eight miles in the sun over the roads this morning from Tewksbury through Ballardvale and Frye Village to Andover, and at 11 o'clock was moving toward North Andover where a big battle between all of the Red and Blue armies is expected to take place.

The Reds were close behind the Blues. No more than two miles separate the armies.

Red Cavalry and Troops B and C of the Blues had a skirmish south of Andover. The Blue Cavalry was supported by a battalion of the 51st Infantry.

Forced March to Turnpike.

Major Murray B. Clement and three companies of the Fifth Regiment left the camp of the Red Army early to-day on a forced march to the Andover turnpike to intercept and harass the advance of the Blue forces.

Part of the signal corps of the Red Army were fired upon by the outposts of the Blues at a point about two and a half miles from the Red camp and a vigorous skirmish ensued. Both sides received reinforcements, and after some heavy firing there was a lull in the clash with honors about even.

Scattered firing could be heard all along the line of march, but the engagements were all of a minor order. Two battalions of the Eighth and Ninth Regiments marched from the Red camp to Reservoir Hill, Middleton, where they ranged in manoeuvres and fought a sham battle among themselves. Mystery surrounds this move on the part of the commanders of the Red Army and the officers refused to talk about it. Considerable secrecy surrounds the departure of the two battalions, but it is believed they were rehearsing a deploy movement which the commander-in-chief of the Reds intends to use in an effort to flank the Blues when the two armies meet in what is expected to be the deciding battle.

LOWELL CATHOLIC LOAN ORGANIZATION

The State Board of Banks and Corporations to-day voted to grant a certificate of incorporation to the Notre Dame de Lourdes Catholic Union of Lowell, an organization composed of a large number of French-speaking citizens of that city, which purposes to loan money to its members. CIRCUIT LINES FOR NEW HAVEN

Because of the New Haven and Boston & Albany Railroad trackage agreements, it is announced to-day by the former that two new loop lines on passenger train circuits in and out of Boston are to be operated soon. One is the "Needham circuit," and over it the New Haven will exercise trackage rights between Newton Highlands and Boston. The second loop line is the New Ashland-Franklin circuit, providing a route from this city by way of Ashland through Hopkinton, Milford, Bellingham Junction to Franklin, and thence back to Boston.

The New Haven says of its Boston & Albany trackage rights, "They give the New Haven the same right to run its trains over the respective sections of the Boston & Albany that it has on its own lines."

L TRANSFER ORDER FOR SOUTH STATION

The Railroad Commissioners to-day ordered the Boston Elevated to establish a transfer point at the South Station by means of which passengers on southbound elevated trains may transfer at Summer street extension surface lines, and also orders that passengers on that line bound from South Boston may transfer at the South Station to elevated trains northward.

COUNTRY CLUB CHARGES READ

The fashionable Country Club of Brookline was to-day formally charged by the town authorities with being a common nuisance because it is alleged to sell and keep for sale intoxicating liquors.

Tuesday next a hearing will be held in the Municipal Court and the club arraigned on two complaints. The complainant is Chief of Police Covey, and the two official documents which charge the exclusive club with the plebeian offence of selling liquor without a license follow attempts almost a month old by agents of a law enforcement society to have the club brought into court.

Judge Perkins refused warrants until the names of agents of the law enforcers might be submitted to him; then on the verge of a clash between different Brookline factions, some believing that a high-toned club had no more right to dispense ardents than a speak-easy kitchen, Chief Covey declared that he would complain himself. Complaints were issued and the club was formally hazed to-day before Special Justice Phillip S. Parker.

None of the club officials was present, as the club counsel, John W. Mofnerney of Boston, accepting service for the club on the complaints and appeared practically as defendant. The town was represented by Attorney Fred H. Williams. By agreement of counsel, the hearing was ordered continued by Justice Parker until next Tuesday.

Sensational disclosures are promised for the hearing, disclosures on a par with those of a year ago when the exclusive club of Middlesex County politicians was raided at Twig's Island on the Merrimac above Lowell.

HOMER DIMAN BURIED.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 26.—The body of Homer Diman, who perished on the side of Dent Du Midi, in the Alps, was buried Tuesday at Salvan, where the youth had been stopping with his mother, Mrs. Fred L. Diman, formerly of Arlington, Mass.

CONNEAU WINS GREAT AIR RACE

BROOKLANDS, Eng., July 26.—Lieutenant Conneau, the French officer flying under the name of Andre Beaumont, to-day won the 1,010-mile circuit of England and Scotland air race, capturing the $50,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail for the greatest aviation contest ever held.

Conneau's total flying time during the race was 22 hours and 28 minutes, his average speed being 44.4 miles an hour.

Conneau arrived at the finish line at the Brooklands control, having finished the last forty-mile lap of England's greatest air contest at approximately a mile a minute. He left Brighton at 1:28 and arrived here at 2:07, making the forty miles in 39 min. utes. Conneau flew the greater part of the last day's stage of 264 miles from Bristol in a thrilling neck and neck race with his fellow-countryman, Pierre Prier Vedrine, his only other serious contender.

Vedrine was rewarded for his long flight and his sturdy fight to win the contest by Lord Northcliffe, owner of the Daily Mail, who presented him with a personal prize of $1,000, which was not included in the original conditions of the race.

When Conneau arrived here, Vedrine was still detained at Brighton, the coast guards' test rule of the contest compelling the latter to remain at the Brighton control until later.

Prizes Aggregate $95,000.

Conneau has become wealthy from his air exploits in the past two months, his $50,000 prize won to-day bringing his total earnings since June 18 to about $95,000. The French officer won $45,000 in the circuit of Europe race.

The 100,000 persons who had turned out to welcome the winner of the spectacular race fairly mobbed the French airman as he brought his monoplane to earth gracefully and easily in the centre of the aero-drome.

Conneau was nearly exhausted by his long and arduous day's work. Breaking through police lines a mob of the winner's enthusiastic fellow-countrymen picked Conneau up and bore him upon their shoulders, while cries of "Vive France" and "Hurrah for Conneau" mingled from British and French throats.

Vedrine had again forged ahead when he arrived at Brighton at 10 o'clock from Bristol, one hour ahead of Lieutenant Conneau. Vedrine made the 224 miles from Bristol by the way of Exeter and Salisbury Plain in 5 hours and 10 minutes, passing through a severe thunderstorm in which the lightning played about the aeroplane's Bleriot monoplane in an alarming manner. Conneau had left Bristol at 4:50 p. m., two minutes before Vedrine departed from the control there, but met with delay en route.

Neck and Neck Race.

The two Frenchmen maintained their neck and neck race, giving thrill after thrill to the thousands of excited spectators who lined the route to watch the passing aeroplanes.

The great race entered upon its most exciting stage with the final leg of 224 miles lying between Bristol and the terminal control at Brooklands.

Vedrine arrived at Exeter, 65 miles from Bristol and the first control station bearing Bristol, at 6 o'clock. Conneau followed two minutes later. After a stop Vedrine again took wing at 6:47 and disappeared in the east. Conneau set out at 7:05.

Vedrine arrived at Salisbury Plain, eighty-three miles from Exeter, at 8:30 o'clock. Conneau reached the Salisbury aerodrome at 8:32 o'clock.

Vedrine departed after a 35-minute rest and Conneau left at 9:47.

DOG TRAPPED IN SEWER 3 WEEKS

With his hunger appeased and freshened by a thorough scouring, Wolf, the shepherd dog that for three weeks wallowed about in the mud of a sewer, thirty feet below the surface of the street, fighting a horde of rats while the police of the entire city were searching for him, is to-day rolling in the luxury of a warm bed at the home of his master, Albert J. Robinson, at No. 172 Ruthredge street, Roslindale, slowly recovering from the effects of his experience.

The dog was found by two employes of the sewer department, who were at work in a drain at Asaawan avenue, near the Bellevue station, Roslindale. The dog is supposed to have dropped into the sewer through an opening at Denton terrace, more than a mile from the spot where he was found. Wolf had been missing since the night before the Fourth. He was born with a deadly fear of fireworks and every year disappeared on that night and would not be seen again until after the celebration was over. When he did not put in appearance on July 5 a notice was sent out and the police requested to search for him.

No trace of Wolf was found until yesterday, when the men ran across him in the sewer. He was covered with mud, exhausted and half starved. The dog was unable to stand and had to be lifted out of the sewer and carried home. Wolf is an expert ratter, and it is supposed subsisted on the rats he killed in the sewer.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Senor Crespo, the new Mexican Ambassador, presented his credentials at the State Department to-day.

CITY SUED IN LAND DISPUTE

William J. Tirrell and other trustees under the will of Jesse Tirrell have brought a bill in equity in the Supreme Court asking for an injunction against the city of Boston and Louis K. Rourke, Commissioner of Public Works, to restrain them from entering upon property owned by the complainants.

For more than forty-five years the complainants allege that valuable wharf property on K and First streets, South Boston, has been owned by the estate of Mr. Tirrell, and buildings have been erected thereon, enclosed by fences. Within the enclosure are stored yachts and other bulky property, which cannot be moved without great loss to the complainants and their tenants. The city has already torn down the fences and is digging up the ground, the continuance of which the plaintiffs claim will cause them irreparable injury. Judge Sheldon has issued an order of notice returnable on Friday.

JEWELERS TO ENTER EXHIBIT

The big jewelry manufacturers of the Attleboros, Mansfield and Providence have notified George H. Holmes, president of the New England Jewelers and Silversmiths' Association, that they propose to have a jewelry making display at the Boston Chamber of Commerce Exhibition in Boston this Fall. The manufacturing houses are planning to be represented. Others are expected to follow.

The exhibit will include all kinds of jewelry and several manufacturers have agreed to install machines which will show the methods of making jewelry.

Walter M. Lowney of Mansfield, a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, has worked hard to get the exhibit under way and make it one of the greatest successes possible. The committee will have another meeting this week and perfect the plans.

BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS OF BOSTON

CALL TRUCE IN SOCIAL WAR GAME

NEWPORT, R. I., July 26.—The battle for society leadership has lasted after two weeks of warm campaigning in the ranks of the adherents of Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. John R. Drexel.

In the court of the cessation of hostilities in the social war game is a profound secret, but the news was circulated throughout the cottage colony that the two commanders of the rival forces had bowed to each other in Bellevue avenue opposite Marble House, Mrs. Mills being with her mother, Mrs. M. Livingston, and Mrs. Drexel occupying an automobile.

One story that the battle for the lead credibly is called off by the two rivals, who declared their hostility inadvertently endangered the social welfare of the followings of the wives. Besides, Colonel Drexel, who is an active member of the army and he has so many people to entertain that a social war at this time would interfere with his plans, a thing that none of the generals in social distinction would care to be responsible for.

The news of the truce was greeted with joy because everybody who was not positively aligned with either party looked forward to a curtailment of festivities even though the entertainments should be given more in the spirit of peace than before, as the lines of battle were being drawn closer and closer in the race for supremacy.

POPE'S BENEDICTION TO CARDINAL GIBBONS

BALTIMORE, July 26.—Cardinal Gibbons has received a letter he received from Pope Pius relative to the celebrations of his two-fold jubilee, the silver anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood and the twenty-fifth of his elevation to the cardinalate. The Pope congratulates Cardinal Gibbons heartily and extends to him, to the members of the cathedral church in this country and to all who take part in the jubilee celebrations the apostolic benediction.

DEFOREST ERRS, SAYS MRS. LEASE

NEW YORK, July 26.—Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease, silver-tongued orator of Kansas days, who upset the dreams of the Wall Street Democrats, thereby aiding to the election of Senator Ingalls, today at her country home in Staten Island, Port Ivory, N. Y., Lee De Forest is wrong in asserting that the suffrage movement will eliminate man from family life, she says in substantial reason. Dr. De Forest's examination of suffrage followed the one he brought to witness his wife as the daughter of Harriet Stanton Blatch.

Now, don't imitate my warning, warned Mrs. Lease. "I am still a firm believer in suffrage. But suffrage is not and will never eliminate man. Such talk is an outcome of the fanaticism of the women who have taken up the suffrage movement as a means of relief to the necessities of the situation which confronts them.

"The great body of women delude themselves if they seek to delude man by their insistent appeal of votes for women. Women must first prove to the voters that the power that come will make them more than a weak vessel. They must be making themselves useful. The native intelligence of the sex, either of itself on the part of the self-deluded and self-centered, is utterly unfitted for the solemn steering.

"Every woman grasps for the truth, not for its shadow, she will break her shell to get a peanut, but will not open it for the shell and then she will not be so strong and so wise that she will have no need to look for anyone to do the work for her. She will be invited to do it.

"We are in the transition period. The parent of the home undoubtedly is the child. Suffrage will not eliminate it. Suffrage is but a symptom of the unrest which possesses the race."

MRS. SIBLEY DEAD

FRANKLIN, Pa., July 26.—Mrs. Mattie Babcock Sibley, wife of ex-Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, died today after a year's illness. She was fifty-eight years old.

TWO TENEMENT FIRES IN LYNN; LOSS $1,800

Two fires in dwelling houses in the tenement district of Lynn to-day did damage amounting to $1,800, and nearly cost the lives of two women who were overcome by smoke, one of them succumbing while trying to rescue her year-old daughter. The fire was at the two-story wooden dwelling house at No. 85 Summer street, the fire starting the in the grocery store of F. H. Olsson on the first floor. The family of Michael Odles occupies the second floor, and when the alarm came Mrs. Odles carried her three-year-old daughter and then rushed back for the year-old daughter, who had been taken out by Steven Odles, aged eight. Mrs. Odles was overcome. The second fire occurred in the six-story wooden apartment house at No. 427 Summer street, occupied by John Thomas, who, with his family, is away.

POWER BOAT MISSING IN OCEAN CONTEST

HALIFAX, N. S., July 26.—Nothing has been heard of the power boat Snap Shot 111, which was one of the four craft in the reciprocity race of 553 miles from New York to this harbor. Fear is expressed for the crew. The Caroline, winner of the race, and the Tuscola, which finished second, encountered a heavy storm, the former boat being badly tossed about off Cape Sambro.

MANSFIELD TO HAVE JEWELRY EXHIBIT

MANSFIELD, July 26.—The committee to prepare the jewelry exhibit for the Boston Chamber of Commerce Exhibition this Fall voted to make the display one of the largest and finest ever seen in New England. Finished products will be shown together with the machines in operation.

Why Should I Use Cuticura Soap?

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. G, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two-page book on the skin and hair.

ENGLAND READY TO FIGHT FOR FRANCE

Fleet Held at Home Instead of Visiting Norway After It Had Been Ordered to Sail.

fect of news that is wafted through the surcharged atmosphere of Europe at this time.

Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, was among the callers at Buckingham Palace, presumably to lay before the King the latest news of the foreign situation.

Sir Francis Bertie, Ambassador to France, attended a meeting at the Foreign Office and conferred for some time with Sir Edward Grey, Premier Asquith and Mr. Lloyd-George.

Much significance is attached in diplomatic circles here to an article published by the Koelnische Zeitung which declared that the Morocco affair is no longer a colonial but a European question.

Britain Mobilizes Fleet.

An order was issued to the battleship squadron which was prepared to sail for Norwegian waters to remain at Cromarty until Friday, when it will proceed to Portsmouth, the point of British naval mobilization. It was also reported that the crews of the home fleet have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness for emergency service. The battleship squadron under command of Sir John Jellicoe was to have sailed for Norway last night.

The British government thus backs up Chancellor Lloyd George's unofficial warning to Germany and replies to Germany's action in the reported summoning of 100,000 reserves for service. While Germany has officially denied the latter report, it is admitted by the Kaiser's government that 100,000 reserves have been ordered to prepare for "Autumn manoeuvres."

Premier Asquith has promised a statement in Parliament to-morrow on the Moroccan situation. According to advices received from Berlin, negotiations between France and Germany were proceeding smoothly until Chancellor Lloyd George's speech on July 21, which was interpreted as a warning to Germany in the present Morocco controversy. The German newspapers now declare that it is impossible for Germany to modify her demands in the face of the threat implied in that speech, because German public opinion would never tolerate concessions which had the appearance of being extorted from Germany under pressure.

Lloyd George's speech was a notification to Europe and especially to Germany that Great Britain must not be ignored in negotiations affecting international interests.

The London Stock Exchange and the Paris and Berlin bourses are all disturbed on account of Moroccan rumors, and considerable business was transacted at Lloyd's to-day insuring against risks of war between Great Britain and Germany.

This followed an announcement by Lloyds that they would not accept liability for war risks under marine insurance contracts after August 8.

Lloyd George's Speech Which Has Caused European Crisis

"I would make great sacrifices to preserve peace. I conceive nothing that would justify the disturbance of international goodwill except questions of the gravest national moment; but if a situation were to be enforced upon us in which peace could only be preserved by the surrender of the great and beneficent position that Great Britain has won by centuries of heroism and achievement—by allowing Great Britain to be treated where her interests were vitally affected as if she were of no account in the cabinet of nations—then I say emphatically that peace at that price would be humiliation intolerable for a great country like ours to endure."—Speech of David Lloyd George.

KAISER WILHELM HASTENS HOME ON REPORT OF WAR

BERLIN, July 26.—Emperor William will return from his cruise in northern waters next Friday and will confer with Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg and possibly with Foreign Secretary Von Kiderlen Waechter immediately after his arrival at Swinemunde.

Some light may then be thrown upon the mystery concerning Germany's future line of action in the Moroccan affair.

Germany, despite the non-committal statements regarding the progress of the France-German negotiations, seems to be marking time, awaiting the Emperor's return before deciding whether to answer the uncompromising warning of the British Chancellor, David Lloyd George, in the declaration of an aggressive policy by a readiness to treat on a basis of a smaller compensation from the French Congo, which the British papers declare is the maximum that Great Britain will permit.

Considerable anxiety is manifested on account of Von Kiderlen Waechter's supposed temperamental preference for a strong policy and aversion for anything that might be construed as a backing down.

German Press Belligerent.

While the Pan-German press, as was to be expected, is belligerent in temper, even the moderate toned papers like the Frankfurter Gazette and the Tageblatt are extremely the English attitude and are willing to go far in support of the Foreign Office.

The officials of the government refuse to comment on the intimations that Great Britain will propose that the stipulations of the Algeciras agreement open the port of Agadir, Morocco, and prevent Germany establishing a sphere of influence on the Atlantic coast.

Germany's action will be determined upon when His Majesty returns.

The semi-official Cologne Gazette, in the leading article this morning, utters the warning:

"The solution of the problem is very simple. France should withdraw her troops, leaving only the police, open the door to international trade and give guarantees that Morocco will not be regarded as a French colony. Germany will then withdraw her warships from Agadir, after securing her economic interests in Fez. For Germany there is no compensation to recompense elsewhere. The critical point in the negotiations is the compensation we demand for France's extension of power in North Africa, which will be felt in Europe. We consider it necessary to warn both sides against stone throwing between two such sensitive nations as France and Germany while such a question is in dispute."

The Tageblatt says: "Great Britain's method of publicly dictating her will to both negotiating Powers, instead of exchanging ideas diplomatically, is no guarantee that peace in Germany as justifiable. The maintenance of British interests is but proof of agression for anything critical to the initiated that General Michel's resignation was inevitable.

Is a War Move.

This resignation was announced to-day, with the news that the office of vice president of the council would be abolished, while the powers hitherto residing in this official would be given to General Pau, commanding the armies on the Eastern frontier.

There is no doubt in the public mind that the cards in the secret service stirred up by the Moroccan muddle. The toughest of trouble with Germany never existed, absent, has been strongly in the foreground since the German gunboat appeared at Agadir.

Although nobody really expects war, France evidently believes that it would be folly to continue unprepared, especially since the report has been spread that Germany intends to mobilize hundreds of thousands of the reserves at the annual manoeuvres in September.

General Michel's retirement may cause a political scandal. Interpellations in the Chamber of Deputies, as soon as the session is resumed, are already announced. The Minister of War will be asked to explain how a man, alleged to be incompetent, was placed at the head of the army.

VON MOLTKE SCION IS REAL COMMANDER OF GERMAN FORCES

	Peace strength.	Reserves.	Total war strength.
Germany	620,000	3,380,000	4,000,000
France	630,000	1,500,000	2,100,000

The commander-in-chief of the German Army is the Emperor, and the chief of his military cabinet is General von Lyncker. The chief of the general staff is General von Moltke, descendant of the famous general and hero of the Franco-Prussian War.

General Tremeau is supreme commander of the French Army, and his council consists of Generals Gallieni, Mathis, Michal, Barnez, Lebon, Lefort, Percin, Pau and Maunoury.

Military service is compulsory in Germany and France. From the ranks of citizens who have served their time in the army and are now unorganized, but are available for duty in case of war, Germany may draw 2,000,000 men, giving her total war strength of 6,000,000 men. France may draw 1,000,000 men, giving her a total war strength of 3,100,000 men.

Germany has ready for use at all times 6,000 field guns, 4,080,000 rifles, 5,000,000 revolvers, 4,245,000 horses, 11,727 automobiles and 52,000 motor cycles for the use of her troops.

The French war army would consist of 620,000 regular infantrymen, 111,820 regular cavalrymen with reserve infantry number 1,000,000 and 70,000 cavalry.

Here is the comparative strength of the French and German navies:

Germany—Battleships 37; cruisers, 51; gunboats, 47; torpedo boats, 180; submarines, 34.

France—Battleships 23; cruisers, 48; gunboats, 14; torpedo boats, 233; submarines, 88.

Officers and men in the German navy number 35,500 men, with a naval reserve of 110,000 men, a total of 145,500. Officers and men in the French navy number 30,500 and no reserves.

Ingrowing Toe Nails

Splendid Scientific Remedy for this and All Sore Feet.

Ingrowing nails, like all foot troubles, continue to grow worse after once starting, unless properly treated. Aside from the awful torture, serious results often follow neglected sore feet, even to gangrene and nervous disorders. The first thing to do for ingrowing nails is to cut an old shoe to relieve all pressure. Then reduce the inflammation by a foot bath as follows: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calcelde compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give desired results.) Repeat this each night, until cure is permanent." The effect of Calcelde is truly marvelous for foot ailments. All pain goes as if by magic and the feet feel simply delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Bunions lose the inflammation entirely, draw out and are reduced to normal size. Sweaty and tender feet are relieved at once. Calcelde (powder) is a chemical now famous, endorsed by doctors, but is now kept in stock in any druggist's, so you simply get it from his regular stock. A twenty-five cent package is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. This will be especially welcome news to those who have been paying $3 to $5 to cure their feet with patent medicines and tablets.

Stone in Bladder Removed Without Surgical Operation

In the Spring of 1904 I was confined to my bed with kidney trouble and thought that I would never recover. I took a lot of medicine, but did not realize any benefit from anything. I finally saw Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root advertisement and sent for a sample bottle and thought the sample bottle helped me, so I bought more of the medicine from my Druggist and after using a few bottles discharged a very large stone from my bladder.

After passing this stone my health was very much improved, and I have been able to continue my business without any serious sickness.

FRANCE IS READY TO MEET GERMAN MOVE

PARIS, July 26.—Commenting on the France-German negotiations growing out of the Moroccan situation, the Echo de Paris says that France will not allow herself to be intimidated by Germany.

Should the Paris report that Germany has called 400,000 reservists be confirmed, France is certain to adopt a similar measure, the paper says.

The cause of the retirement of General Michel from the vice-presidency of the Superior Council of War, it was learned to-day, was the question as to what should be done for the national defence in case of war with Germany. Several days ago the fact leaked out that General Michel, who is commander-in-chief of the armies of France, stood alone on some military questions against the twelve other generals in the council. The deliberations naturally were strictly secret, but the situation seemed so

Colorado and the Burlington—They Go Well Together

In one breath you think of Colorado with her world of wonderful scenery, her health-inspiring climate, her wealth of vacation joys. And in the next you think of Burlington Service—the route of limitless advantages.

LOWELL DENIES GAYNOR CLAIMS

President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University says that he never suppressed the Mayor Gaynor letter in the New York School Board controversy, also that Mayor Gaynor apparently seeks to advertise it.

Mayor Gaynor of New York has accused President Lowell of "suppressing" a letter which the Mayor wrote to him in favor of the Mayor's contention that New York should have a small pair board of education in place of the present large unpaid board.

President Lowell and many other prominent educators have written to Mayor Gaynor in opposition to this plan. In the course of correspondence Mayor Gaynor charged President Lowell with publishing his own letter but "suppressing that of the Mayor."

"I had supposed the college spirit was a different spirit to that," said Mayor Gaynor. Now President Lowell says in reply:

President Lowell Replies.

"Of course I never suppressed this letter of Mayor Gaynor's. His previous letter he sent to the newspapers and I first read it there. I in no way prevented his sending this last one to the papers if he so desired. When I wrote to him in New York it was understood that my letters could be published if he wanted them to be.

"The only meaning I can find in Mayor Gaynor's action is that he wished to draw attention to the affair, in other words to advertise it."

This is the letter the Mayor said Mr. Lowell suppressed and which President Lowell denies having suppressed any more than he suppressed the Mayor's first letter:

Office of the Mayor,
July 19, 1911.

Dear President Lowell: I thank you for your letter of July 14. I am wholly unable to compare a small board of education in this city to a board of directors of a bank or other business corporation. On the contrary, a small board of education here would have to devote all of its time to the actual work of administration.

You are, of course, aware of the amount of money which it takes to run our department of education, and of the amount of work which it takes apart from governing and supervising the methods of instruction. I can say to you as a practical man that I do not wish to appoint a small board of education without the members are to be paid, for I know that I cannot get competent persons to give all of their time to it, as they would have to do. My position is that unless the small board is to be paid, we should retain our present large board.

Gaynor States Views.

Dr. Abbott is in favor of a small board, and substantially every one who has looked into the matter, for the simple reason that our large board is a failure. Nevertheless, I should rather keep it than try to constitute a small unpaid board. The notion that the members of a small board could carry on their own business as well as do the work of the board is a mistaken one. They could do no such thing without neglecting their public duties. Very truly yours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard College, Cambridge, Mass.

LOBSTER FAMINE NEW NEWPORT WOE

NEWPORT, July 26.—Lobsters will be omitted from luncheons in the cottage settlement to-day because of the gale, which blew thousands of lobster pots against rocks and up on the beaches. As a result Newport is lobsterless. The society women have gone in strongly for Narragansett Bay lobsters this Summer, and the supply is never equal to the demand. A Newport fish dealer could have made a small fortune to-day if he had had a big supply of lobsters.

MRS. H. C. BEATTIE FOR WHOSE DEATH HUSBAND IS HELD

Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., is in jail at Richmond, Va., accused of slaying his wife with shotgun as she rode with him in auto.

SEEK FACTS OF BINFORD GIRL

RICHMOND, Va., July 26.—Unless plans of the detectives on the Beattie murder case are changed within the next twenty-four hours, Miss Binford, former sweetheart of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., will be transferred to another jail in the county, where she will be kept in strictest privacy to prevent any communication between her and Beattie.

All efforts of the officers are now centered on the young woman, who today, while passing her time in jail, played "jacks" with the evident pleasure of a child.

The detectives believe that when she is placed in solitary confinement, where she can hear nothing about Beattie, she will weaken and probably will tell more than she has about Beattie.

In an interview today Miss Binford said she ran away from school at Alexandria with another girl from Washington, who since has married. She told of visiting Chicago, Nashville and other cities, saying she never had a chance to be a good girl.

"I never thought Henry would marry me. Nobody but a poor fool in a padded cell would marry me. Am I going to stick to him? Stick to him about what? I have got to look out for myself," Miss Binford flintly said with some emphasis.

The girl is receiving voluminous mail and telegraphic communications offering her everything from marriage to large salaries in vaudeville. No one has offered the $1,000 bail required to procure her liberation, however.

EXPLOSION THROWS HUNDREDS IN PANIC

NEW YORK, July 26.—Hundreds of residents of the densely-populated tenement district of the East Side were driven from their homes in panic early to-day by an explosion and fire in the basement of the five-story factory building at Nos. 119-121 Avenue D. Fear that a Black Hand bomb had been exploded added to the terror of the residents, many of whom were Italians. Twenty-eight children were imperilled by a fire which started in the cellar of the four-story double tenement at No. 901 De Kalb avenue, Brooklyn, and were rescued with difficulty, while sixteen families were driven from their beds.

40 DIE, $1,000,000 LOSS IN TIDAL WAVE

TOKIO, July 26.—Forty persons are known to be dead in the province of Tokio, part of which was overwhelmed by a tidal wave early to-day, following in the wake of a devastating typhoon which had raged for twenty-four hours. Part of the embankment in the Fukagawa district was washed away. The Sunaki quarter was inundated and scores of houses demolished. The damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

1800 K. OF C. OFF IN CELEBRATION

In celebration of "Embarkation Day," the day on which Columbus set sail from Palos in Spain on his voyage to the New World, 1,800 members and friends of the Knights of Columbus, under the auspices of Bishop Cheverus Assembly, Fourth Degree, and the Columbus Club of Dorchester, together with their wives and sweethearts, to-day enjoyed an outing down the harbor on the steamer South Shore.

The trip started shortly after 10 o'clock from Rowe's wharf with flags and bunting flying. It occupied the entire day. A four hours' sail along the North Shore was enjoyed, after which the steamer docked at Fort Warren. Here dinner was served under a big tent and a stop made for the remainder of the day.

A program of athletic events, competing recess for men, bobbie skirt races for the ladies and a special children's event was held. A baseball game between the married and single men was another feature of the day. The party return in the early evening after a trip along the South Shore.

The committee in charge comprised Edward T. Meiettrick, Philip O'Connell chairman executive committee, assisted by Past State Chaplain the Rev. James X. Supple, Past National Chaplain and Rev. Garrett Barry and Dr. Timothy Hanrahan.

The number of tickets was limited to 1,800 and they were all sold—in fact, more than twice that number were applied for after the limited supply had given out, indicating the interest taken by the knights in the celebration of "Embarkation day."

To be exact, to-day is not the anniversary of the departure of Columbus, but is within the week of the anniversary, and was decided on as the best day of the week by the committee in charge.

Over fifty councils of Greater Boston sent delegations to take part in the outing. Some of the largest delegations came from Lowell and Lynn, which is showing made by the order during the past year and the growth in membership has been remarkable.

Luncheon was served on board previous to the dinner, which was served at 1 o'clock. During the voyage down the harbor Miss Marie G. P. O'Connell and Miss Flossie Dwyer of the Dorcester Club of Roslindale distributed candies to the children on board. These young ladies were dressed in pretty costumes and made a pleasing feature.

The committee in charge of tickets included Francis J. D. Ferguson, Peter F. Hanley, Joseph H. Stack and M. H. Connolly.

John S. Quinn, Past Grand Knight of Mt. Pleasant Council, a member of the executive committee, was chairman of the athletic features. He was assisted by James M. O'Brien, Fred A. Crosby, P. T. Dwyer and John W. Kane.

RED CORPUSCLES AT HIGH ALTITUDE GAIN

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 26.—Red corpuscles in the blood are 25 per cent greater at this altitude than at sea level. This is an indication of purer blood in high altitudes. The statements were made by four scientists who are studying the effect of altitude on humanity, and are making their observations on the summit of Pike's Peak, 14,147 feet above sea level. They are Drs. J. A. Haldan and Gordon Douglas of Oxford University, England; Dr. Yandell Henderson of Yale University and Dr. E. C. Schneider of Colorado College.

CROP IS DOUBLED BY SOIL DOCTOR

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 26.—The greatest gains by soil treatment that the world has ever known have been made on the University of Illinois experiment on the S. S. Noble King farm in McLean county. By the use of phosphorus fertilizer the wheat yield was more than doubled. The average yield on all plots which were not treated with phosphorus was 17 bushels an acre. The average yield on the fertilized plots was fifty-eight and one-half bushels.

SWAN GIRL WIRES FROM PHILADELPHIA

NEW YORK, July 26.—"I am perfectly safe. Have good position. Do not worry. Please withdraw your offer. I promise you I will write later. Look no further." The foregoing unsigned night letter was received to-day at the home of the missing nineteen-year-old Louise Swan, No. 11 Thirty-first street. It was addressed to a maid in the employ of the family and was sent from Philadelphia.

Sensational Price Reductions

Final Grand Clean-Up of Every Suit of Clothes in This Great Store

The Kennedy Policy of "No Goods Carried Over" Results in a Startling Drop in the Price of Dependable Clothing

When we announced, three weeks ago, that our business policy demanded a complete clearance of our entire stock, it created a decided stir and sent thousands of thrifty men here for their share of the genuine bargains offered. But our stock is so large that we have decided on still more drastic action.

We have now made what are probably the most radical reductions that Boston has ever known on goods of equal quality. The unvarnished truth in this case will no doubt appear startling and sensational to many men. But we invite all to come and see for themselves that things are exactly as represented. Everything here is our own legitimate carefully selected stock, and the figures show exactly how much you save.

Everything MUST go, and GO AT ONCE. It is not a case of "WANT TO" with us—it is a case of "MUST" which results in this truly extraordinary opportunity to buy fresh, new, all-wool, hand-tailored, "Guaranteed-to-satisfy-or-Your-Money-Back" Clothes at less than the price of questionable merchandise.

Lungs Declared Sound
Life Insurance Granted

We advertise Eckman's Alterative to tell those who have lung disease what has been done by its use.

Gentlemen: "On the evening of May 13, 1907, I had five hemorrhages from the right lung. My hemorrhages kept up for one week—I had twenty-eight in all. Septic pneumonia developed. My doctor told me my left lung had also become affected. I started to take Eckman's Alterative on May 13, 1907, and improved steadily. Since my recovery about a year ago I was accepted for life insurance, after two examinations by a company that had previously rejected me."

(Signed Affidavit) CHAS. MORGAN, 5653 Thompson St., Phila., Pa.

Fuller details of above case on request. Eckman's Alterative is for Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Affections. For sale by all Druggists, Stores, Hospitals & Proctor Drug Depts. and other leading druggists. Also by mail, express paid, from wire to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

JEALOUS SUITOR SHOOTS WOMAN

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., July 26.—Walter S. Burnett, assistant janitor of the City Hall at Rochester, and a special policeman, who, inspired by jealousy, fired two bullets into Mrs. Florence Blaisdell in this town last night, was arraigned today on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He was committed to await the result of the woman's injuries.

Mrs. Blaisdell is in the Wentworth hospital. She is not expected to live, although the surgeons are surprised at her remarkable vitality.

Every one of the bullets took effect. One pierced her right arm, another her left arm, while the third struck her over the right eye. The fourth bullet entered her breast and the fifth struck the woman in the abdomen.

Mrs. Blaisdell is a waitress in the Cushidy boarding house on Grove street. She is twenty-four years old and has been separated from her husband for about two years. Burnett has been attentive to her for some time.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

WAR FLEET IN BATTLE TACTICS

PROVINCETOWN, July 26.—Great secrecy is being maintained as to just what the big warship fleet is doing out in the bay. Arriving shortly after noon the two division ships discharge water traversing missiles in one, two and three order, as if engaged in actual combat with a foreign foeman. Picket boats are scouring the sea off the Barnstable coast.

The United States Navy is to try a new stunt in naval warfare and learn how to fight aeroplanes, which in wars to come will, it is expected, try to drop bombs from away up in the air down on battleships and cruisers.

The flying machine feats of this Summer have been so remarkable that naval authorities are beginning to consider men birds as formidable antagonists. The question has been raised as to what elevation guns on warships could be trained, and whether it will be possible for the men behind them to hit aerial craft.

During the Summer maneuvers of the North Atlantic Squadron, now lying in this harbor, it is proposed by Admiral Osterhaus to learn what his fleet can do in defence and offence, if attacked by a flock of aeroplanes.

Shoot at Kite Targets.

The experiment will be made by shooting at targets suspended from box kites, with three-inch guns, after firing by rifles has been tried. This is a novel test. No navy has yet made it, and all the navies in the world will be interested.

Mrs. Joshua Shackford Buck of Grant's Pass, Ore., and mother-in-law of Captain James Hoge of the United States marine corps, died of a lingering illness here on Saturday and her funeral yesterday was largely attended by naval officers and their women relatives who are in Provincetown.

Chaplain Cassard of the battleship New Hampshire officiated at the funeral services, and the honorary pallbearers were Captain Isaac Hazlehurst, Lieutenant Commander Clarence S. Kempff, Sergeant Snyder, First Lieutenant V. Mortimer, Ensign Pittsburgh Green and Ensign Elliott, all from the Michigan; with Captain Martine and Lieutenant Morrison, who is from the marine corps. The body bearers were two non-commissioned officers and four petty officers from the marine corps of the Michigan. Interment was in the Provincetown Cemetery, where the body will be removed later, when her only son, Walter Buck of Reno, Nev., can arrive to take charge of it.

Torpedo Boat Works.

The new torpedo boat destroyer Tripps has been engaged in practice work in the bay and will both the fleet of similar craft which has been expected daily. This boat was recently launched and arrived here on Monday. She is one of the latest design with burners and one of the handsomest of her class afloat.

All of the seven battleships now in the harbor are in fighting trim except the Connecticut, which is crippled by a broken crank shaft. She will lie here until a new one can be moulded in Brooklyn navy yard and sent to Provincetown. Admiral Osterhaus transferred his flag to the Nebraska, which went into dock recently on a visit to Race Point and was aground for an hour before getting off. There is much talk here about this ashore until yesterday.

The naval division of battleships is due back here on Friday, and before the end of the week will cruise around Cape Cod Bay.

REAL GUN PLAY WITH "AD" MEN

Awful! Just think of what that Texas delegation of advertising men want to do in Boston. They want to have a real cowboy ride through the streets at the head of their parade, carrying his battery of side arms and shooting off blank cartridges. That's the exact truth, for they have wired Police Commissioner O'Meara asking his permission.

It's one safe bet that if General Clark doesn't capture Boston pretty quick, the Texas delegation will. They left Dallas last night on a special train of Pullman cars—300 strong—to attend the four days' convention in this city of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, which opens August 1. The Texas delegation is after the next national convention and intends to get it.

Now don't for a minute think that this Texas delegation is made up of cow punchers. The cleverest brains of all Texas are included in its big advertising clubs. But Texas men believe in advertising. They want to let Boston people know when they arrive in town that they are a-wake. That's why they have petitioned the police commissioner to let a mounted cowboy right from the Texas plains lead their parade from South Station to the Hotel Westminster on their arrival July 31.

Luxurious Train for Texans.

The train that the Texas delegation is traveling on is a duplicate of the Twentieth Century Limited and is the finest train that ever left Texas. It includes ten cars made up of compartment, observation, baggage, diner, club and sleepers. The compartment-observation car is a new product of the Pullman Company and is one of the finest features of modern rail travel.

Before arriving here the party will make stops at Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Albany and New York City. On the return trip the delegates will go through Philadelphia, Washington and Richmond.

One of the leaders of the Dallas party is F. P. Holland, editor of the Holland Magazine and one of the most progressive advertising men in the country. Other prominent Texans include Fred E. Johnston, William H. Atwell and Clarence Ousley.

The delegation has engaged the Edison Cadet Band for the convention and can be depended upon to make things lively during their stay.

Every advertising man from London are on their way to New York on the Celtic, which sailed from Liverpool yesterday. Heaton-Hadley, delegate of the Incorporated Society of Advertising Consultants, in a letter just received in Boston, said:

The English delegation is very enthusiastic over this convention. I am sure it will be the biggest ever. Our party is anxious to visit Boston, as it is more like our country than most other places in the States."

Will Visit Beverly.

Although President Taft will not be able to receive them the ad men will make a call upon Beverly and view the sights of the North Shore on Wednesday, August 2, leaving the Hotel Lenox at 1:30 o'clock. There will be 350 automobiles. All interested in advertising who wish to have their cars placed in the line are invited to send their names to J. S. Hathaway, of the White Steamer Company.

A special sight-seeing tour for the women guests of the delegates is planned. Five special cars will take the party over a new route which has been studied out by the experts of the Boston Elevated and which will be one of the finest sight-seeing trips ever arranged in Boston.

Joe Mitchell Chapple, editor of the National Magazine, who calls himself a "convention crank" and who has attended conventions in all parts of the world, said to day:

"This advertising convention is so finely arranged as am I have ever heard of. I can see that there is great enthusiasm over it from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ruhr even in London. Curt Teaff, secretary of the Chicago Board of Trade, told me of the tremendous interest being taken in the Middle West in this convention. It is an unusual convention. It is a gathering of men who get money for what they think and write for other men who are used to paying for things. It is a great convention for Boston."

Governor Pothier of Rhode Island has been added to the list of speakers for the opening exercises at Faneuil Hall on Tuesday.

Moisture Causes Eczema

Constant moisture is a common cause of eczema. Thousands of people are often affected where the folds of the skin come in contact. Washwomen are very apt to have severe eczema upon the hands, which is often incurable so long as the hands are frequently in water. In treating eczema, Walker and Cadum should be thoroughly used, or not at all. Simply apply a small quantity of Cadum, the new skin remedy, night and morning, and the trouble will disappear. Itching stops with the first application, while the healing process is rapid. Cadum also possesses high curative powers in the treatment of redness, pimples, blotches, rash, roughness, scaly skin, chafings, acne, sores, ulcers, eruptions, hives, tetter, itch, herpes, psoriasis, ringworm, itching piles. Trial box, 10c.

WHITE MOUNTAIN ROAD BONDS SOLD

CONCORD, N. H., July 26.—State Treasurer Solon A. Carter has disposed of $250,000 in bonds, the second instalment for building three state boulevards from the Massachusetts line to the White Mountains. The bonds bear interest at 4½ per cent. They all went at par and had it not been for the law giving New Hampshire citizens the privilege of buying at that price, they might have been sold at a premium.

AMERICAN'S $10,000.00 PROVERB CONTEST

STILL YOUNG!

This is Picture No. 38

Anyone May Enter TO-DAY!

The Boston American's Great $10,000.00 Proverb Contest is now in the full, vigorious hey-day of its youth.

Don't entertain the idea for a minute that the costly prizes which the American offers, are out of your reach simply because of the puzzle pictures have already been printed.

These prizes are just as easily within your reach as they were on the day the contest began.

The American, moreover, has provided every facility for you to get a running start in the contest now, or next week, or, in fact, any time up to the day the last puzzle picture is printed.

The back numbers of the puzzles that have already been published may be had at the "Contest Department," at the regular rates of the American for the days on which the puzzles originally appeared.

Sunday back numbers are 5c (plus return postage); daily back numbers are 1c (plus return postage). You may call for them or order them by mail. The Contest Department is at 275 Devonshire St.

You can get as many or as few of them as you like. Many are ordering complete sets to date, which shows that the interest is spreading fast—that the $10,000 worth of prizes are being realized and appreciated by NEW Contestants all the time.

The back numbers are accompanied by the answer blanks corresponding to each picture. Once you obtain the back numbers to date you are right up with all the earlier starters.

This is not a race! Time has nothing to do with it. It is just a competition of cleverness.

One thousand prizes!

Are they not worth a great deal more than the little mental exercise which is required to solve the seventy-five puzzles which will complete the set?

The popular little official Proverb Books are in greater demand each day.

This volume contains the correct answers to each and every picture which will be used during the contest. It contains over three thousand proverbs and is the one guide to the contest, and the only one on which contestants must rely.

A copy of the PROVERB BOOK will be mailed to anyone who sends a money order for 35c to the "Contest Department, 275 Devonshire St." Those who care to, may call for same at the Contest Headquarters at the same address. Be sure to get the American's PROVERB BOOK.

All things considered, there couldn't be a better time than this very day to begin your march towards the winning of those prizes.

While the Red and Blue troops are fighting the mimic war battle, why shouldn't you fight this—a battle of wits?

Read the prize list over just once more and then—solve to-day's picture and send for back numbers and the Proverb Book.

Hold all answers until you have the entire set. No answers will be considered if sent in before the publication of the last picture.

Conditions of the Contest

THE BOSTON AMERICAN PROVERB CONTEST is a contest of skill and judgment. The total amount of $10,000 will be given absolutely free by the Boston American to the winners. Every one living in New England, irrespective of age, is eligible to enter this contest.

Each set of answers must contain only one answer to each picture, but each person is entitled to send in three complete sets of answers.

The answers to the puzzle pictures may be sent in writing in long-hand either with pen or pencil; they may be written on the typewriter or may be printed in any manner to suit the fancy of the contestant.

Participation in any other contest now being run or which may be run by the American will not debar anyone from entering the contest.

Each contestant or any or all members of the family will be allowed to submit one, two or three sets of answers, but each set must contain only one answer to each picture. Each set will be considered separately, but no contestant can win more than one prize. All employes of the American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in this contest.

In case there are no complete lists of correct answers, prizes will be awarded to the persons submitting the nearest correct solutions. In case of a tie, award will be made on the basis of neatness and exact accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied contestants will receive similar prizes.

Do not send your answers now. Keep them from day to day and at the end of the contest arrange them in numerical order and then send them all in at one time.

Under no circumstances should contestants begin to send in their answers now, as any answers sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered.

Time will not be a factor in awarding the prizes. The first answers sent in after the contest closes will stand no better chance of winning a prize than the last answers sent in.

All answers must be delivered at the BOSTON AMERICAN CONTEST HEADQUARTERS, 275 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass., either by mail or in person, within the specified time limit. It is contemplated to give contestants ten days to two weeks after the close of the contest to prepare their answers, so that they can be sent in altogether at one time.

The American will not be responsible for the receipt of any answers unless addressed to the CONTEST EDITOR, and addressed to "PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR, 275 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass."

In case contestants desire further information they should address their questions to "PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR, Boston American, 275 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass."

There will be seventy-five puzzle pictures in the series used in the contest. The answers to each of these pictures may be sent in on the coupons printed in the daily and Sunday issues, or may be written on separate slips of paper. The use of the coupon is desirable, but not necessary.

The Editor of the PROVERB CONTEST reserves the right to make any change in, or addition to, the conditions that he may deem necessary for properly conducting the contest, and his decision on any question which may arise will be absolutely final.

RUGGLES STREET CHURCH ON FIRE

Fire which started from defective wiring in the ceiling near the organ loft of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church caused excitement among occupants of tenement houses and caused a damage of $1,000 today.

The church is one of the oldest in Roxbury and for years has been known as the Ruggles Street Baptist Church. When the fire was discovered smoke was pouring out of the upper windows. So threatening did the flames become that it was felt at one time that the premises of the Baptist Social Union adjoining would be destroyed.

REASONS

Why Father John's Medicine builds up the body and makes strength.

It is a pure food medicine.

Its ingredients are nourishing and strengthening.

Having a gentle, laxative effect, it drives all impurities out of the system, and its nourishing qualities build up new tissue and make strength.

Nothing equals it as a tonic and body builder. Contains no alcohol or injurious drugs.

PROOF

"I WAS ALL RUN DOWN, FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE CURED ME."

"I was all run down and very nervous. Father John's Medicine built me up and I regained the weight I had lost. We give it to our children with the best results. We would not be without it in the house." (Signed) Frederick F. Miller, 147 Thompson St., Bridgeport, Conn.

HONEST, NOW, SMITH LIVES ON

Raymond Smith of Lynn isn't dead.

When seen today he declared he had been greatly surprised about his demise, as you might say.

But he's going to read the papers after this and keep track of himself in a manner of speaking.

If anyone pulls some of this "doesn't he look natural?" stuff you've got to show Smith.

The whole thing has been "greatly exaggerated." It began on June 9 at Newburyport. On that day an unidentified man was crushed beneath a Boston & Maine freight train. After the body had lain in the morgue a few days it was buried in potter's field. A week or two afterward Mrs. Annie M. Hart of Lynn identified the portrait of the dead man as that of her nephew, Raymond Smith. The body was exhumed and reburied in the family lot at Swampscott.

Mrs. Hart, in order to make herself doubly sure that her nephew was dead, communicated with the Manchester, N. H., police, for when she last heard from Raymond he was at work in that city. The Manchester police notified Mrs. Hart that to the best of their knowledge Smith had not been seen in that city for some time.

Some of Smith's friends saw him in Manchester. "No, I ain't dead, honest to goodness," he replied to their amazed questioning. So he put on his best clothes and came to Lynn to deny the report in the strongest possible terms. "Take it from me," says Smith, and that goes. But the insurance companies thought him dead long enough to pay policies on his life.

CONNECTICUT IS WORTH A BILLION

HARTFORD, Ct., July 26.—The amount of taxable property in Connecticut in 1910, according to figures completed by State Tax Commissioner W. H. Corbin, was $907,500,084, an increase over 1909 of $31,879,807. The value of the 180,861 dwelling houses in the State is placed at $474,217,545, or an average of $2,623. The Federal census recently taken showed a population of 1,114,756, which would mean that a dwelling shelters a fraction over six persons.

CANADIAN ROW ON TRADE PACT

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26.—The great battle that is to determine the fate of American and Canadian reciprocity in the Canadian Parliament began at 11 o'clock today when the House of Commons convened for debate. The decision of Premier Laurier and his Cabinet to call a special election and appeal to the people leaves only in question the time of holding the general election. The Senate will not convene until August 9. For this reason it is not considered likely that a dissolution will come before that date, though the government may call for it without a moment's warning.

Disorder broke out when George Perley, chief Conservative whip, accused Minister of Public Works Pugsley of violation of confidence. Pugsley replied in sharp terms and both speakers were interrupted by cries of "Order!" "Shut up!" "Sit down!" The House finally became so disorderly that the speakers could not be heard, and the speaker ruled the discussion out of order.

BIG AUTO IS STOLEN FROM THE TOURAINE

Boston police and those of surrounding towns are searching for a big automobile of Estey Walsh. A strange young man is supposed to have borrowed it off of an early hour today from the Tremont street entrance of the Touraine. The chauffeur left it for a moment. When he returned it was gone. The last seen of the auto was when a strange man who had been about the Touraine was observed driving it wide open up Boylston street. Its description is being sent out to garages in neighboring cities.

NEED $200,000 FOR MAINE WRECK WORK

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The work of investigating the explosion on the battleship Maine proved so expensive that the War Department will request an additional appropriation of $200,000. At least three months more will be required for the work.

LEACH TELLS OF NIAGARA FEAT

NIAGARA FALLS, July 26.—"Never again," said Bobby Leach, who went over the Horseshoe Falls in a barrel today. Though he was battered and bruised in the drop of 158 feet, he sustained only superficial injuries, and today is able to be about his house. This is the second time that the cataract has been successfully navigated. Anna Edson Taylor of this city made the trip in a barrel October 24, 1901, and came out alive.

"I bounded the tumbling above the falls more than the big drop," said Leach. "It came near killing me, the way I was tossed about before I hit the brink."

Harnessed by police on both sides of the river, Leach was forced to make his start from La Salle, two miles and a half above the cataract on the United States side. Albert Mang and William Perry, old river men, took him out in a launch into the Canadian channel. They stopped at Navy Island and Leach was pinned in the steel barrel, which is eleven feet long, the ends of laminated wood. He was suspended in a canvas hammock.

The barrel with its passenger was cast adrift just off the mouth of Chippewa Creek. When 500 yards from the brink it was caught in the tremendous rapids and raced to the chasm. Hardly thirty seconds elapsed from the time it made the plunge until it was seen, a red speck, careening in the volume below the cataract. Just abreast of the Ontario Power Company's generating station it was caught in an eddy and there spun around for several minutes before again catching the down current.

Men in Leach's employ were ready in a rowboat just beyond to catch the barrel, but before they could get to their assistance Frank Bender of Chippewa swam out to it with a rope and caught it by one of its handles. From that point the barrel was towed ashore.

Leach was bleeding and appeared in a bad way, but once out he raised himself and waved to the crowds that lined the bank. It was necessary to apply oxygen to revive him.

COMMISSION FOR PASSAIC.

PASSAIC, N. J., July 26.—The commission form of government was adopted by the city of Passaic by vote of its citizens, making the third New Jersey city to favor the change.

WILSON REPORT AGAINST WILEY

WASHINGTON, July 26.—It is expected that President Taft will overrule any recommendations against Dr. Harvey W. Wiley contained in the papers turned over to him by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. To friends the Secretary intimated that he had followed the report of his personnel board.

RECIPROCITY BILL SIGNED

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The Canadian reciprocity bill which was passed by the Senate last Saturday received the President's signature today.

Signed first by Speaker Clark on behalf of the House and by Vice-President Sherman, representing the Senate, it was sent to the White House for President Taft's signature, which was immediately affixed.

W. T. PIPER DEAD IN CAMBRIDGE

Just before midnight Williams Taggard Piper of Cambridge died at the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital, of which he was president of the corporation.

His death was due to an attack of pneumonia which he suffered at his home, No. 129 Brattle street, about three weeks ago.

Cleanliness is a science where Schlitz is brewed. We filter even the air where the beer is cooled. Then we filter the beer. Then we sterilize every bottle.

We go to Bohemia for hops. Our barley is selected by a partner in our business.

The water is brought from rock 1,400 feet underground. Our yeast is produced forever from the same mother cell.

Schlitz beer is sent to you in Brown Bottles, protecting its purity from the brewery to your glass. Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives protection against light.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

PRES. LYNCH SAYS FOR BOSTON FANS TO GIVE RUSSELL A SHOW

NEED OF MORE BOXING CLUBS

By RILEY.

If Boston is to be represented by champion boxers in the future we must have more boxing clubs. For the past few years the Armory A. A. has been the only club in the business in this city from one end of the season until the other without any opposition from the law. And it now looks as though the Armory will either have to find a new club house or close down for good, as a law has been passed which forbids the holding of any sort of amusement in a building which connects with a garage.

The garage which is in the same building with the Armory has a long lease, and they will have preference over the Armory.

In the old days when champions were developed here in Boston there were plenty of clubs at which the local boys could get tryouts. There was the Lenox A. C. on Hanover street, the Roanoke A. C. on North Russell street, the Business Men's Club on Pitt street, the Central A. C. in Bowdoin square, the Tammany A. C. in Roxbury, the Essex A. C. in the South End A. C.

In those days the local talent had plenty of opportunity to perform. With only one club now in operation it is impossible for all of the likely boys to develop, as nothing around town to get tryouts. They are side-tracked in preference for the experienced fighters of other sections of the country.

More Competition Is Needed.

If there were more clubs such conditions would not exist. There would then be plenty of opportunity for the local youngsters to stage bouts between local boys and also some bouts between outsiders.

There has lately been a wave of interest developed in Boston during the past few years. When there were plenty of clubs the opposition it was different.

Young Dowdee first came into prominence while showing before the Tammany A. C. of Roxbury. Jimmy Gardner and Billy Gardner first won fame at the Lenox A. C., while Joe Walcott and George Dixon won their spurs at the Cooper Club, and no one could continue naming new fighters after another who came to the front and under the old regime.

During the past few years boxing has come to be looked upon as a degrading sport. Boxers and their managers are considered by many people as social outcasts. Such conditions should not be permitted to exist.

The sport of boxing should be regulated by a series of laws. The boxer guilty of "faking" or "lulling" should be punished. The referee should not permit a bout to continue until it has become a slaughter and not a boxing match. It is such things as this that kill the sport.

Gamblers Working Evil.

Another evil working toward the destruction of the boxing game is the "square thing" gamblers, the men who will not wager any money unless they are positively sure of winning. Accordingly this evil they often attempt to bribe fighters to "lay down." We are glad to say, however, that in most cases the boxers have answered them by knocking them cold.

Boxing matches should be scientific matches and not bloody battles. Men should go into the ring to box, and not with the intention of beating up an opponent so badly that he will have to remain in a hospital for several weeks after the bout.

Give us more boxing clubs to boost the ball boys, drive the "sure thing" gamblers out of the sports, have boxing matches and not slaughters and then, and not until then, can we hope for the sport to be looked upon as it should be by people in all of the different walks of life.

The next show of the Perry Athletic Club of Newport, R. I., will be held on August 9. The main bout will be a twelve-round affair between Andy Farrer of New Haven and "Demon" Young of Frisco. In the semi-final "Cy" Goodwin of Boston will attempt to do some awful things to "Kid" Albert of Providence in a six-round bout between "Young" Polanzya and "Young" Gillis of Newport.

Dave Deshler is now matched up to meet Paddy Sullivan of Brooklyn in Manchester, N. H., on August 4. The bout is to be held at the Colleum A. C. where Billy Weeds is in charge of affairs. Deshler is now in top notch condition and is capable of giving a most creditable account expected on the man from the city across the Charles.

Sam Langford, the light heavyweight champion, has left for Nova Scotia to rest up for a few days previous to going on an extended tour of the Provinces at the head of an athletic combination which will include Porky Flynn and possibly Bob Daly, the Canadian heavyweight champion. Joe Woodman, Porky and physical director McQueen will join Langford Saturday, leaving this city by boat Thursday.

Tom Jones is very much set against the coming Jack Dillon-Battling Levinsky affair. Al Wolgast, and Packey McFarland, Conditions both have got to the point where there is danger of a break between Wolgast and his manager. It is due greatly to the efforts of Jones that the Cadillac farmer couples the present lofty position among the lightweights.

O'TOOLE UNDER OFFICIAL JINX

Marty O'Toole, the redheaded spitball wonder of St. Paul, who is just now the most discussed ball player in the country, comes back into the big league handicapped, if the official jinx, which seems to pursue all these high-priced marvels, still on the job. O'Toole will probably land in Pittsburg eventually, regardless of McGraw's protests that he had a bid in for him which should have taken precedence over others, but said protest will help to increase interest in the New England Irishman, anyway.

Possibly O'Toole will prove a glittering exception to an established rule, and live indefinitely because as much of a star in the majors as he has been in the minors. But it would be well to remember that Dinneen probably did not pay $22,500 for O'Toole, he undoubtedly paid plenty, and O'Toole will go on record as the highest priced piece of baseball property ever thrown upon the sales counter.

And then he will have to contend with the jinx.

Showing the Jinx.

"Rube" Marquard, "Rube" Benton of Cincinnati and "Lefty" Russell of the Philadelphia Athletics are familiar examples of the jinx, not to mention anyone, for there is no "Lefty" Coburn, the $8,000 shortstop of the Chicago Nationals. "Rube" Marquard cost the Giants $11,000 when he was purchased from Indianapolis, and he has just commenced to make actual return in the way of baseball value after several years, although in another fashion he has probably been worth the money, because he has at least been a big advertising asset, if that counts for anything.

"Rube" Benton stood Cincinnati $7,000 when he was bought from Macon, but Griffith did not have the same patience with him that McGraw did with Marquard, apparently, as he sent him to Chattanooga. Benton comes back to the Reds this fall a rather star, but of a very problematical value in the big league.

Russell is alleged to have cost Mack $12,000 when he was bought from Baltimore, but the latter was so far under authority all. Part of this purchase price was likely expressed in players.

The Mathewsons, the Alexanders, the Johnsons, the Fords, the Rickeys and the Greggs both out of the minors, unheralded and unsung. Some people are inclined to think that the enormous amount of advance advertising which the high-priced stars receive is a severe drawback to their ability, because they come into the big show with too much expected from them, and their inability to live up to expectations is a discouragement. Certainly it draws the fire of the self-appointed critics of the diamond more quickly and more harshly than in the case of an unknown.

Great Among the Minors.

O'Toole is a great minor league pitcher. There is no denying that. Many judges of American Association talent might be inclined to pick Jim Baskette of Toledo, who leads the league with 17 games won out of 23 pitched; or Lessard, the Columbus star, is probably not far behind, but the fact remains that Marty is a big man in that company. On the strength of his Western League record in 1910 he was suggested to a number of major league clubs this Spring, but his start with St. Paul by which he belonged, embarrassed and unsung. KAUFMAN TO GO TO AUSTRALIA

By TAD.

Al Kaufman, who hasn't said any more than Napoleon has for the past two months, has broken out.

Jim Flynn was the boy who put the silencer on Al, and for a time we thought he'd never chirp, but he's going again here. He has an offer from Hugh McIntosh to box either Jack Lester or Billy Lang in Australia, and will get $5,000 along with his expenses for mingling.

Kaufman has been quite sick since his defeat, and only last week showed signs of rounding to. Al expects to leave for the Antipodes about the 16th of August.

There are no early wolves in Australia, according to McGuffy's history. One manager mentioned around here under the name of Jack Lester is half of the present beau population. Bill Lang, the other dinosaur of O'Toole will go on record as the biggest prized piece of baseball property ever thrown upon the sales counter.

And then he will have to contend with the jinx.

Showing the Jinx.

LYNCH TO GIVE RUSSELL A SHOW

NEW YORK, July 26.—President Lynch of the National League scouts all rumors regarding the alleged threatened action on the part of himself and the National League club presidents to ask President Russell of the Reds to step out of baseball and requests the Boston baseball fans to give Russell a chance to make good now that he has a free rein.

The league head was not a bit surprised when asked about the stand he was taking regarding the state of affairs in Boston and was glad to get a chance to contradict the mean rumor statement which he has been credited with making.

Lynch Makes a Statement.

"There are a number of questions which have arisen of late regarding the Boston club," said President Lynch. "Boston fans have been led to believe that a number of the club heads and myself are opposed to President Russell and that we would ask him to quit baseball. Now I want to say that not one of these rumors is false, and that I never made any such frivolous statements.

"Furthermore, I don't believe and can almost safely say that there isn't any influential man in the whole circuit in the league. President Russell has a one-hundred per cent. backing in Cincinnati and in one of its members, and his done nothing which has deserved any such action being taken.

"Mr. Russell has been up against it in Boston, as he and his former partner have parted ways, and the result is they were at war and this certainly held back matters a bit. Now that the two warring partners have separated and Russell is in full charge, he has been given a chance to give him a chance to make good.

"He has only been down long enough to get over coming the past year, and people should give him a chance to show what he can do, which will more or less take time as well as money to build a winning team. I believe Russell is trying to do. If he does not succeed then he is the loser, as much and more so than anybody else. So you can say for me that President Russell will be given a fair chance to make good before being criticised severely.

Contradicts Silly Stories.

"Whoever started the rumor that we would ask Mr. Russell to quit is crazy or has been dreaming. This is the first time I have allowed myself to be quoted regarding the condition of affairs in Boston and I speak now only that I may contradict all these silly remarks which have been credited to me.

"Regarding the transfer of the Boston club to Baltimore:

"There is not a chance of Baltimore getting the franchise. Baltimore is a grand ball town and has always been one of the strongest National League cities. Many statements concerning this matter have been made, which only means, most of which have been false.

"I think that President Russell, if given a fair chance, will make good in Boston, and I feel sure, that with more or less time all his taken by the National League in an effort to drive it into bankruptcy. I have ball. He has his money invested in the Boston club and nobody could make him quit if he didn't want to.

"It is up to the fans of Boston to get a winner, as it did St. Louis, but the same conditions of affairs existed there last year. The team was a tailender or a near tailender, and with nothing to speak of in a really great star the team has developed wonderfully and is up and fighting. Give President Russell a chance."

MAINE TOURNAMENT OFF.

PORTLAND, Me., July 26.—The Maine State golf championship tournament, which was to have been held at the Cape Club in August, has been declared off. Karl Messer, the present State champion, who has won two legs on the trophy to be presented to the player capturing it three times in succession, will probably be given permanent possession.

Golf Notes—News From the Links

The tournament for professional men at the Wollaston Golf Club next week will, without a shadow of doubt, be a record affair. The very novelty of the affair will attract no end of players and the field should be large. Moreover, if the weather is good golfers and pick out the M. D.'s, D. D.'s, and LL. D.'s the course should be by no means small.

This tournament is to start on Monday and with a qualifying round of 18 holes. Match play will begin in divisions of 16 on Tuesday continuing throughout the week up to the Friday afternoon the final round will be played. The entry fee of $1 will help a string on the handsome prize which covers the entire week's play, should be sent to James E. O'Connell, Boston Press Club, No. 3 Beacon street, Boston. The meeting is being instigated and held under the auspices of the Boston Press Club.

W. C. Fownes, Jr., national amateur champion of this country, fell a victim to George Hatton, the Canadian Champion, in the last 18 holes play of the Olympic competition.

Goat-getting contests have been decidedly in vogue at many of the suburban golf clubs this season and especially at Lynn, where play is very keen. For a small entry fee each player is presented with a model which has a goat emblazoned on it and the player's name. The player may challenge another and if he wins takes away his goat. At the end of the season the player having the largest number of goats receives a prize emblematic of the event.

Rivalry is at a high pitch over these goats and many men are practicing hard in order to secure their game enough to beat the man who "Got their Goat." It is amusing to see some of the contestants who have won one goat, get defeated and give away their own "mascot" rather than dispose of the goat which they had taken from some other opponent.

SAMMY KELLAR BEATS HARVEY IN 10 ROUNDS

ALBANY, July 26—By directing his attack to the stomach and kidneys, Sammy Kellar, the English bantam champion, battered down Charlie Harvey of Windsor, Ont., in ten fast rounds. Harrey was a pretty sore boy at the end of the bout, as Kellar succeeded in landing with both body blows.

In every game back in the tenth with a whirlwind finish, beating the English bantam to the punch and landing a hard one to the right and left hooks, but Kellar's advantage in the earlier rounds entitles him to all the credit of the battle. Kellar had weight on Harvey and was strong in the clinches.

GOTCH IN TRAINING AT PLEASANT PARK

HUMBOLDT, Ia., July 26.—Frank Gotch, world's champion wrestler, opened a week's engagement at Riverside Park, a Summer pleasure resort here, going through his training stunts before two large crowds, afternoon and evening, which has Al Carius, Joe Rubio, Bruno and Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis here as his wrestling partners, and both were half-hour exhibitions with the champion at yesterday's appearance.

M'FARLAND HAS A KICK COMING

If any lightweight has a reason to kick, Packey McFarland is the one. Great things were predicted for this man when he was sixteen years old, and Battling Nelson once said: "I know a youngster named Packey McFarland and when he is a few years older he'll lick the whole lot of us."

Packey McFarland, the pride of the Chicago stock yards, was but sixteen years of age when he started out to make a name and fortune in the squared circle. He could bowl over his opponents in those days like he does now, but one thing keeps him from the championship.

Packey Started To Grow.

Packey started to grow just when he was good enough to work up for a title, and stopped just a few notches over the lightweight division. If he had continued gaining in poundage and made the middleweight division, everything would have been all right, but that was not the Chicago—boy's luck. He is just about two or three pounds over the lightweight limit and if he looks as if he will stick around that notch.

It is not only likely, but probable, that if McFarland was in the lightweight division he would be the perfect right to write world's champion after his name. In a way, Freddie Welsh admits as much. He says: "McFarland at his own weight can beat any of us."

That Extra Weight.

Packey has had a lot of the matches, however, with the best lightweights, but that does not win for him the championship. Those two or three pounds extra weight have been on the nerve of the Chicago boxer a long time, but he cannot get rid of them, so he has to be satisfied with the bouts that he is getting. He is signed up for a ten-round bout with Champion Wolgast on September 19 in Milwaukee, but the championship is not involved.

The fans might stand for him as a champion if he scores a knockout, and there are many boys who will fight him for the championship at 133 pounds, weighing in in the afternoon. McFarland also has chance to meet Matt Wells, the holder of the English title at 135 pounds in the afternoon, but it seems as if he is sidestepping that bout.

CHICK EVANS LOSES MATCH WITH PHELPS

DETROIT, Mich., July 26.—An interesting struggle between Mason Phelps, western champion, and "Chick" Evans, ex-western champion, which Phelps won by halving the last fourteen holes, one contest decided on the twenty-first and another on the nineteenth hole, and a match play card of seventy-one and stroke slower than the course record, turned in by C. Howland of Chicago, featured the startling features of the second day's play for the western amateur golf championship on the links of the Detroit Golf Club.

MAGNOLIA BEATS HARVARD

Magnolia defeated Harvard in the first game of the series between the two colleges at Wollaston Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 3. Harvard's pitcher was hit hard in the first inning, when Magnolia scored three runs. Harvard scored one run in the second inning and two in the fifth inning. Magnolia scored one run in the fifth inning and one in the seventh inning.

WOMEN SKIPPERS SHOWING SKILL

BUZZARD'S BAY, July 26.—Yachting fixtures for the coming month, both at the Beverly Yacht Club at Wing's Neck across the bay and at the Sippican Club on the Marion shore, will give the yachtsmen about here all the sport they wish, and already some interesting regattas are on the calendar, both in open and classes.

Next Saturday at the Beverly Club there will be all kinds of water sports in the forenoon, with the seventh club race in the afternoon. In the twenty-one-foot class the Forminifer and the Saracen will again battle for first place, while the most enthused crowd comes in the sonder class. Here the Sea Coon, the Stackpole boat, and the Sally VIII., owned by C. S. Heitler of Marion, have been jockeying for first place each Saturday, and at present the Sea Coon leads a trifle.

During the coming month the eighth club race of the Beverly will be held August 12, with the ninth on August 19, while on the twenty-sixth there will be an athletic meet in the morning and team race in the afternoon.

The big event for the Sippican Club comes August 5, when the annual race for the Van Reusseleer cup will be sailed. This is the annual event in yachting circles at the Marion side of the bay, and society turns out in full force on that occasion.

During the season the young girl skippers, and ladies, too, are more in evidence than on previous years, and Miss Margaret Codman with her fifteen-foster the Yalo, is always on hand, as is Misses Esther Homer with the Pronto, Mary Williams with the Tyro, Miss Willis Williams the Phantom, and Elizabeth Whiting with the Trident, a fast little cabaret, and the Misses Crocker in the same class, while in the dory class Miss M. White sails the Boults with much skill.

TRACK GAMES AT WOOD ISLAND PARK

The postponed track and field events for the East Boston schoolboys under the auspices of the School Committee were held at Wood Island Park, East Boston, yesterday afternoon.

The finals of the events of all the Boston schools will be held at Wood Island on September 9.

Fred O'Brien was in charge of the Wood Island games, and he was assisted by Jerome Green, William Nolan, Penny White, James Winston and James Morris.

AMATEUR BOXING AT ARMORY A. A. AUG. 4

At the next amateur boxing show, Friday evening, August 4, at the Armory A. A., the program will consist of four open classes, namely, 115, 125, 135 and 145 pounds, instead of the usual three open classes and three special bouts.

The last amateur show, June 30, did not have as many bouts as desired, and by having four open classes, enough bouts will be made to warrant a good evening's entertainment.

HEDGES ANXIOUS TO SWAP BALL PLAYERS

By R. W. LARDNER.

Robert Lee Hedges and Fred Lake are trying to take some of the very best Red Sox to St. Louis with them. The president of the Browns intended to make this Eastern trip with his club, but when he once got located East, he had a hunch that Boston would be the proper place for him to come.

So he's here and his team is in New York. The chances are he will await its arrival and then accompany it to Philadelphia and Washington. But he doesn't think it safe to leave Boston just at present, because there's a possibility of his dropping a deal which would make the St. Louis outfit more presentable.

Now don't think for a minute that he's going to get something for nothing. He's in a position similar to that occupied by W. Hepburn Russell. Very few swaps he could pull off would hurt his club, and one that might prove satisfactory to John I. Taylor might also help the Browns. These mutual benefit trades have been made before.

What Has Hedges Got?

The question is, What has Mr. Hedges got that Mr. Taylor wants? Bobby Wallace is about the best in the Brown outfit. He is manager, and so he isn't likely to be traded. Jimmy Austin was acquired from the Yankees only last Winter, and Robert Lee wants to hang onto him. Well, there are some pitchers on the St. Louis staff who might look good in Boston, uniforms. Most of them are young fellows with their careers before them. If only 1 thinks well enough of them he might be willing to pass over a percentage of them.

Clyde Engle, Heinie Wagner and Bill Carrigan once hunted in St. Louis. To the outsider, it doesn't look as if the Browns had enough trading material to offer as an even exchange for these three. But perhaps Robert Lee will be able to land one or two of them, and if he does, he will consider himself well paid for his trip.

The handsome face of Edward Walsh is not visible among Hugh Duffy's athletes this time. Edward has lumbago and is resting at his home in Meriden, Conn. Nobody in Boston is mean enough to hope that he will suffer much of long from this complaint. Nevertheless, if he must be sick at all, it is nice that the attack came just at this time.

There is a chance that he will report to Hughey in time to play to-morrow's game, but the Chicago manager doesn't expect to see him until the team gets to New York.

Duffy With Team.

Mr. Duffy is spending a few days with his team. "Duff" has been scouting around the country in search of recruits. The Chicago folks don't think a great deal of their pennant chances this year, but they feel bound to land a winner in 1912, and it is up to Duffy to find patches for the 1911 holes.

There aren't many of these holes visible to the naked eye, but it is evident that the boiler of Mr. Comiskey that Detroit and Philadelphia are just a little bit stronger at present. Chicago doesn't need any pitchers, provided its present staff can work up to its top speed. It could use a catcher and an infielder. Hughey is looking for any kind of classy athletes, but keeping his eyes peeled particularly for backstops and basemen.

E. Barry White, eminent composer, is at work on another song. He won't tell what kind it's going to be, but it probably won't have anything to do with the national pastime. Due to going on the stage again this Fall, and nobody can blame him. He can write more anything about ball songs per day than pitching, warming up or sitting on the bench. Barry hasn't been wanted in baseball quarters, but the sole interest they have in him is as far as returns are concerned.

Ray Collins and his overhand were exhibited at the Huntington avenue grounds yesterday. Ray was beat as good against the White Sox as he was out in Chicago. He set six of them down on strikes and the visitors had to be content with a solitary run which was made by Acting Manager Lord in the ninth.

REDS GET AHEAD OF RUSTLERS

CINCINNATI, July 26.—Cincinnati, by beating out the Rustlers, has secured two new pitchers who will greatly strengthen the team if they can do anywhere near as well among major leagues. They are Leonard, from the Columbus Club in the American Association and Compton of the Dayton Club of the Central League.

Lessard is winning two-thirds of his games, while Compton has won more than three-fourths of his games in the Central League.

Manager Griffith announces the purchase outright of Pitcher Compton. He will come here at the close of his season in the Central organization and will be used with the Reds in the last few games of the season and on their Fall tour through West Virginia and Ohio.

It became known that Boston was after Compton and would have secured him had the Rustlers had another day.

McQuillen and Paul were traded to Columbus for Lessard. McQuillen has passed his ability to beat the big league home and will probably remain with the minor organization for the rest of his days. Paul is a youngster whom the club secured from Chicago and is pitching his first season.

TYPOS TO PLAY TO-DAY.

The Typos will meet the South Boston Red Sox at the National League grounds to-day at 3:30. Bob Murray will pitch for the printers.

GLEASON READY TO CLOSE DEAL

Jack Gleason took the 1 o'clock train this morning for New York, but returns Thursday to complete the deal which will make him virtual manager, vice-president and minority stockholder of the Boston National baseball club.

While in Boston Gleason paid calls to old friends and acquaintances, including President Taylor of the Red Sox, Mish Murray and Jimmy Callahan of the White Sox.

Along with the Arabian Nights' tale of Gleason's ride to the reserve and the exit of L. C. Page from the scene, comes a romantic narrative of which C. James Connolly is the hero. Mr. Connolly has been on a fishing trip in northern Maine, but when he received a telegram from Boston confining to his office whereby his present small holdings in the stock of the club would be multiplied many times, Mr. Connolly doused the fly rod and the birch bark canoe and broke all speed records in an endeavor to reach Boston soon enough to go through with the deal.

Connolly Arrived Too Late.

Mr. Connolly is bearing up well under his disappointment. He reached town at midnight Monday, two hours after a ball too late, Gleason had "come through." Then Fred Murphy had a prospective purchaser in tow, a man who does not want his name used, since he is not, after all, to become a baseball magnate. All of which was under discussion at the Copley-Plaza when the ruddy face of Gleason's cigar thrust up between his cheek and chin whiskers. He did not appear to be too much relieved on account of the narrow escape he had had, and didn't turn a hair when Mr. Russell went on for to say that if Mr. Connolly could have got there first, he, and not Gleason, might have been the new vice-president of the club.

Trades are in the air, for players, Gleason will see Tenney's fruise in action at Pittsburg. "Doc" Miller used to work for Gleason on the coast, but the new magnate has never met any of the other Boston owners. Meanwhile a trade may be pulled off in Chicago, but the tendency will be to let Gleason look the players over before any of them are let out.

Russell Talks of Trade.

Russell said in reserved discussion of the Herzog incident, that he had refused to trade Herzog for Leach of Pittsburg. Russell claims that before the end of this season he saw first baseman Gowdy will be raised as the equal of Jake Daubert, and perhaps more. If Gowdy turns out half as well as Russell thinks he will, the problem of Tenney's successor at Big One will have been solved, at least, and Mr. Russell also feels sure that Bridwell will play as good a game at shortstop as ever he did. Boston fans also "hope" that Gleason's friends on the coast may add him in strengthening his club by picking up ball players from that section.

Mr. Russell has developed a renewed interest in the possession of law, and says that he hopes to be able to divide his time to his New York practice from this time on.

Keen "at a price" the club isn't for sale any longer. Not to-day, anyway.

Always working, never tame,
Always straining mind and sinew,
Giving Mac the best stuff to you;
Always one who seemed to think,
Never failing in a pinch;
May you last long season through!
Goodby, Al—good luck to you!

When the Giants, home again,
Start the wearing championship strain,
You'll be missed 'neath Coogan's Hill
With your steadiness and skill;
With your hits, when hits mean tallies,
And your dashing lofted sallies.
Every year that showed you down
Made you friends in New York town.
One swell player, one true pal—
Good luck, Al!

AMERICAN TEAM WIN FROM HERALD, 11 TO 3

At Franklin Field the Boston American team defeated the Boston Herald of the Newspaper League by the score of 11 to 3. The game was featured by the heavy hitting of Kennedy, Pix, McKenna and Wilson, and the pitching of Harrison of the American team, who allowed but four hits and struck out fourteen of his opponents. Green and Doherty of the Herald played well.

The Journal rucked another game away at the National League grounds, when it defeated the Christian Science Monitor by the score of 11 to 4.

The Transcript, which is leading the league, was defeated in a fast game by the Traveler by the score of 5 to 4.

JEANETTE KNOCKS OUT KUBIAK IN THIRD

NEW YORK, July 26.—Joe Jeanette of New Jersey knocked out Al Kubiak, the Michigan giant, in the third round of their scheduled ten-round bout at the Twentieth Century A. C.

The knockout was a hard right hook to the jaw. Kubiak fell on his hands and knees and rolled over on his back, but arose at the count of nine only to be knocked down twice in quick succession.

The last time he went down Referee Charlie White counted the fatal ten seconds, Kubiak arose in a dazed condition, not realizing that he had been knocked out.

GOVERNOR SIGNS N. Y. BOXING BILL

ALBANY, July 26.—Boxing in New York State was legalized by enormous 10 to 1 majorities in both houses of the Legislature this afternoon when Governor Dix signed the bill of Senator Frawley, which places the sport under a State commission to be named by the Governor. The fight for the passage of the bill has been a long and bitter one.

The bill has received a great deal of opposition from some of the fight promoters, who would rather have things remain as they are.

From now on the sport of boxing throughout the New York State will be under the direct supervision of a committee of three. This committee will see that all of the different clubs conduct their affairs in a legal manner. Any club found evading the laws by the committee will be deprived of its charter.

BOSTON P. C. GOLF OPEN TO "AD" MEN

The announcement of the big golf tournament of the Boston Press Club to be held next week for professional men on the Wollaston Golf Club's course at Mount Hope caused considerable interest in this club, and the committee in charge of the tourney said was kept busy refusing the eligibility qualifications of applicants for championship honors.

It was definitely decided by the committee to restrict the tournament to members of the Boston Press Club, but the demand for a big event open to members of the several professions was so great that the committee voted to invite all professional men to participate.

We have come to the conclusion that the story over on no. ought to be a fine story of "Eaglebeak" Spruder and Emily Morton's engagement is a fake. We have also come to the conclusion that "Rattles," the smooth-tongued mascot of the Starfish Giants, who pushed Eaglebeak says he would not be seen strical press agent. We have no excuses to offer. We interviewed both principals yester day. Emily Morton claims that she hates "Eaglebeak" worse than poison, and

The engagement does not exist.

"Skinny" Shaner, manager of the Star Giants, tried all day yesterday to locate the place of residence of "Micky," the strange kid from the West, who pitched such a great game for his team the other day. Up to the time we went to press "Skinny's" quest had been in vain.

If "Micky" sees this story he is requested to show up at the League Grounds this afternoon, as "Skinny" Shaner has a surprise for him. We do not know just what the surprise will be, but "Skinny" says it will be a surprise all right, and we are taking his word for it.

The Starfish Giants and the Wasps get together for the second game of their series this afternoon. If "Micky" does not show up to pitch for the Giants "Eaglebeak" will be back on the job. We have not yet found out who will pitch for the Wasps. "Mesmulepeg" Ott, who pitched the other day, has been canned. That's all we know.

Married Life the Second Year

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

To Escape the Heat Warren Announces a Trip to the Seashore

HELEN had been home ten days now.

And while these first days of her return had not been all that she had dreamed they would be, still she had been very happy. Though Warren was not as tender and affectionate as she had hoped, yet he was far more considerate of her than he used to be.

The heat had been very trying, and made him at times most irritable. But she could see he tried not to vent his displeasure on her. And that had been one of the things that had hurt her most. Whatever the cause of his anger or discomfort, he used always to make her feel that it was in some way her fault.

That fearfully hot evening they had taken the car ride it had been the most unfortunate one since her return. Warren had been undeniably irritable and unkind then. He had hardly spoken to her on the way home. And she had gone to bed with a heavy heart, fearing that he was relapsing into his old spells of irritability. But he had made up for it the next morning by saying as he started off:

"Take it easy to-day, Kitten. Keep as cool as you can, and to-night we'll go to a roof garden. That'll be better than a crowded trolley ride. How about having dinner up there?"

"Oh, no, Warren, we mustn't dine out so much. You know how expensive it is. Let's have dinner here first—just something cold, and then go out afterward."

"All right, economical little person!" as he pulled at a loose strand of hair.

Paying Her Compliments

"Oh, you're mussing me all up!"

"You look prettier when you're mussed," brushing her hair loosely over her forehead. "There now, go look at yourself in the glass—you look like the girl on the magazine cover."

When he had gone she did run in to the mirror, and not only was the slightly dishevelled hair becoming, but her cheeks were softly flushed and her eyes shining from Warren's unaccustomed compliment.

He so rarely said anything of this kind to her that she treasured every word. And now she was more than ever glad that since her return she had faithfully kept the promise she had made herself—to always wear a fresh and dainty house gown every morning, no matter how trivial and in every way to make herself as attractive as she could.

Her resolve that Warren should never again see her carelessly or unbecomingly dressed, she had so far rigidly kept. And she felt that the compliment he had paid her this morning was worth all the time and effort it had cost.

So instead of spending an unhappy day brooding over his harshness of the night before, just because he had said what he did this morning, everything was "right" again. And she went about her work humming happily.

That evening they went out, and again the next night. But each day grew hotter than the one before.

Warren vowed repeatedly that they would never spend another Summer in this apartment, but he admitted it would be better to wait until it was cooler before they went apartment seeking. The papers had daily announced that the mercury would bring relief. But the thermometer kept steadily upward until now, the eighth day of the heat wave, dawned hotter than any that had come before. The air was stifling.

Warren had laid all night on a couch in the front room, and Helen had her bed drawn close under the window, but neither had slept. Winifred, too, on her little cot by the nursery window, had been most fretful.

"Helen," Warren demanded suddenly, his chin in the air as he struggled with his collar, "how long will it take you to pack up for a week at the seashore?"

"A week at the seashore?

"Yes, this thing has reached the limit. We're not going to stay here another night in this heat. We'll all be sick if we do."

"But where can we go?"

"To one of the hotels at some nearby beach—there's plenty of them."

Planning Their Trip

"Oh, but can we afford it? You know how expensive it will be."

"It'll be cheaper than having all of us sick. Now, can you be ready by 5 and we'll go out this evening?"

"But Warren——"

"Well, we're going, that's all there is about it. I don't intend to spend another night like last night. You don't take a lot of things—just enough for you and Winfred to get along on. I'll be home in time to pack my suit case."

"But, dear, have you any idea what it will cost?"

"Never just leave that to me. All you're got to do is to get yourself and Winfred ready by 5 o'clock. Can you do it?"

"Oh, yes, of course, I can."

"Good! I'll be here at 5 sharp. It'll take me about twenty minutes to get my things together and we'll be out of here by half past."

A week at the seashore! In spite of Helen's anxiety as to the expense, she was filled with joyful anticipation. Somehow the thought of going away with Warren for a week seemed to renew the romance of their honeymoon.

To many women the possibility of romance in married life ends before the first year, but with Helen two years had not succeeded in crushing it.

She was ever trying to make of Warren the lover. And although he was far from that, what he lacked in sentiment her own vivid imagination made up. She was always planning scenes of tenderness and love to be lived through with him, and countless disappointments had not as yet crushed out this tendency.

Pleasant Thoughts

And now in this trip to the seashore, she saw many possibilities of hours in which they could be very happy.

She remembered during their engagement, one wonderful day's trip to the beach, and how they had sat out on the sand in the moonlight and listened to the crashing waves.

Yielding to a sudden fancy she had made him give her a pencil and a bit of paper. The back of an envelope was all she had, and she had torn it in two and told him they must each write the thing they wished for most in the world—and then bury their bottles deep in the sand with a little prayer that they would come true.

He had laughed and called her a sentimental little kitten, whom he supposed he had to humor. Then she had found two clean shells in the sand and, putting the tightly folded bits of paper between them, had buried them deeply.

On hers she had written: "That he will love me always as much as he loves me now!" Although she had never asked him, she had often wondered what he had written. As they left she had tried to mark the place in her memory by an imaginary line from a tree and a distant cottage.

She smiled now at that fancy, for long ago the waves had washed the shells away.

But now, all day as she got their things ready for this trip, she dreamt of that wonderful night. And she was filled with fluttering expectancy that they were again going to find them. Perhaps not to the very same place, they would once more sit out on the sand in the moonlight and listen to the rushing waves.

Good for children. Good for you.

Can You Beat This?

ONE man would have it that a collie is the most sagacious of dogs, while the other stood up for the setter. The argument grew owbed a crisis.

"Which was very intelligent," said Jim on the other, "one day I acted so queerly about a certain man we met that I asked the man his name and——"

"Oh, that's an old story!" the collie's advocate broke in sneeringly. "The man's name was Partridge, of course, and the name of that the dog came to a set. Ho! Ho! Come again!"

"You're mistaken," replied the other, suavely. "The dog didn't come quite to a set, though almost. As a matter of fact, the man's name was Quarter, and the dog hesitated on account of the spelling."

"Mother's Right Hand" Revolts

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

A number of girls belonging to first class families have taken positions with other families as housekeepers.

THE daughter who stays at home and is "mother's right hand" the better part of her life will be immensely interested in something new in "unlonizing" reported from Paris.

The daughters of well-to-de families in Paris finishing their education in public schools and convents are coming forward from these institutions as members of the French League of Girls, who demand one of two things:

Either permission to enter business, or if compelled to remain at home and engage in the ordinary duties of the household, the wages of a superior servant paid by parents or relatives.

The French girl has awakened to the fact that she must emancipate herself from her present condition of dependence and must strike out for herself.

Accordingly, a number of girls belonging to first-class families have taken positions with other families as housekeepers and are making good.

"If we had stayed at home we would never have received wages," they say.

The Surprising Feature

The surprising feature of this move to secure rights where rights have been the longest denied is that it originated in France instead of in this country, where girls are less under parental control. In the older countries a girl is expected to stay at home and do her share of the world's work in her mother's kitchen until some man comes along and removes her to a kitchen of her own; and if no man comes along, and she outlives her parents, she becomes a heritage, often unwelcome, in the homes of her married brothers and sisters, a dependent without a dependent's wages and perquisites. This is the condition of almost all girls in the upper and middle classes abroad; it is the condition in this country of only one girl in the family; the girl who is her "mother's right hand."

"Mother's right hand" is usually the oldest girl in the family, and she began to be a "little Mother" when a swarm of younger brothers and sisters pushed her dolls out of her arms with their demands to be nursed and cared for. She knew a baby around too big for her strength before she is ten years of age, and when the children have grown up and gone, married or earning money for themselves, she is still toting a burden around that is heavier. It is the burden of caring for her parents in their declining days, and the knowledge that she is face to face with the future with a training that will not bring her financial returns and without a dollar of her own to show for her lifetime of labor.

Mother Boasts of Her

In every home like this the mother boasts of the skill and cleverness of her "right hand." She can sew, she can cook, she can nurse, just like a woman; she will say, and "takes just as good care of the children as I can."

She is, next to the mother, the most valuable and useful member of the household, and, like the mother, she is appreciated in words more than in deeds. She keeps the household machinery running when younger brothers and sisters, one after another, step into positions downtown. She removes from their shoulders all the care and worry that would accumulate there if a servant were in charge of their home, and also the necessity of paying a servant's wages.

She belongs to the class of women who work without wages, a class made up largely of wives and mothers, and lacks the compensating joy motherhood makes of such a sacrifice. She is the "Little Mother," honored in poetry and song and forgotten on pay day.

She reaches forty, sometimes fifty years of age, having worked hard since she was big enough to wheel a baby carriage, and hasn't a dollar of her own. She has never known what it is to accumulate so much as a bank account, and plan to buy this or that with her own money. Her brothers and sisters save from their earnings for a rainy day. If she has one, it is "given" to her, and parents should be ashamed to look a "gift" like that in the face.

She Ought to Have Money

Had they paid her nursemaid's wages when she toted babies around, though only a puny beneficiary, and increased those wages as her duties increased and she became dishwasher, chambermaid, cook, seamstress and housekeeper, she would not be in the humiliating, degrading position, of every unpaid "mother's right hand" at home.

She would be as well off as the servant; she would be faring as well as if she had worked for the family next door.

The French League of Girls is an organization based on justice and good sense. If son receives wages the day he takes a position in his father's employ downtown, then daughter should be treated as well the day she assumes the duties of a servant at home.

It is a feature of "equal rights" neglected by the press and platform, but which is the cause of the rankling injustice and resentment in many homes.

The Meanest Man

OLD Mr. Grab was not a philanthropic soul. If he wanted a thing, he generally found a way of making others pay for it. And if others wanted a thing, they could go on wanting, for all he cared.

But one warm June day his hard old spirit melted, and he fixed a wooden box outside his house, with "For the Blind" written across it. And he started the fund himself with a penny.

Other contributions followed swiftly. The warm spirit of charity evinced itself in nearly all the passers-by, who dropped their offerings into the little box," while Mr. Grab watched them gratefully from the window. How they had all mistaken this good old man! How they had misjudged him!

Two days later the box was withdrawn.

"I see you have taken away your collecting box?" called one of the neighbors.

"Yes; I've got quite enough, thank you," replied the old man, bounding to the new striped sun-blind that had just been fixed to his window. "How do you think it looks?"

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHOULD NOT WORRY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am seventeen and recently became engaged to a young man four years my senior. We are to be married on my eighteenth birthday.

I heard about four weeks ago that the fact of my being so young and engaged has created considerable talk.

It makes my intended husband and myself very embarrassed.

What can I do to prevent this talk?

My health is greatly run down from worrying. I have no mother and am glad to take your advice.

A SENSITIVE GIRL.

SUCH talk must not worry you. You know that you are doing right and nothing can keep the real truth hidden. It is bound to be revealed sooner or later.

You must have some intimate friend who will stand up for you when anything false is heard about you.

The Only Boston Newspaper

to send a special representative with the Boston Chamber of Commerce on its great European tour was the Sunday AMERICAN. Read Mr. Frederick J. McIsaac's graphic account of the experiences of the party in Germany in Next Sunday's American.

This friend should come between you and the public, making them realize their mistake in the head quickest way.

On the other hand, the men you are to marry should not stand this insult, be, too, could straighten matters in the same manner.

If you both had friends who sincerely respected and appreciated you, such accusations statements never could have been spread abroad.

TOLD HER AN UNTRUTH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Is it proper for a gentleman who is keeping steady company with a young woman to go to an entertainment and dance without her?

Did the young woman be out going to see a play with an old friend and she did not object. Instead he went to the dance. The next day he admitted he had been to the dance. There were many of the young woman's friends there and, now as they tell her he was seen dancing with other girls, she naturally feels embarrassed.

Kindly let me know whether it was gentlemanly and proper for him to do this? PERPLEXED.

IT is perfectly proper for the young man to go to a dance with other men; but in this instance, it was not very kind of him to go without the girl, knowing how much pleasure it would have given her to be there.

Much more serious than this is the fact that he did not tell her the truth.

Before having more to do with him the matter should be satisfactorily explained, and even if it come to the point of giving him up it would be infinitely better to do so than to marry a man whom she could not trust.

Comforts of Home

GEORGE W. PERKINS, who has withdrawn from the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. to devote himself to the great public questions of the day, said at a recent dinner in New York:

"Ours is a country of phenomenal prosperity. There is no such prosperity anywhere else on earth. Here we have work for all."

Mr. Perkins smiled.

"In fact," he said, "we have such a scarcity of labor here that the Western farmer was hardly looking when he inserted in the newspapers this 'want ad.':

"Wanted—Harvest hands. Hired girl, blond and pleasant. Phonograph music during meals. For three times a day, Six lumps of sugar to each cup of coffee. Hammocks, leather divans, cozy corners, feather beds. Rising hour, 10 a. m. Organ concert every evening. Free chewing and smoking. Come one, come all."

The Vanity Box

Synopsis of Preceding Instalments

SIR IAN and Lady Hereward, while visiting their neighbor, Mrs. Forestier, learn accidentally of the presence in England of Terisina Ricardo, a beautiful young girl, with whom Sir Ian was infatuated while in India, prior to his marriage.

Sir Ian decided to pay you a surprise visit, this very day," says Mrs. Forestier.

Sir Ian and his wife hasten home to receive Miss Ricardo, but Lady Hereward leaves her when half through the woods to Friar's Moss, explaining that she has some souvenirs to distribute among several of her people.

Sir Ian meets Miss Ricardo, whom he has not seen for months, and notices that she seems distressed. She explains that she is visiting her friend, Mrs. Craigie, who is away, and felt compelled to visit Sir Ian and his wife, who had been her companions in former years.

Mrs. Barnard, wife of Tam Barnard, farmkeeper for the Herewards, is attending to her household duties with little Pepper, six years old, playing at her knee when Miss Craigie, Lady Hereward's maid, calls to make a visit at the Barnard lodge. Tom Barnard, who was a soldier under Colonel Hereward and fought with his old chieftain, is always at the village. The Barnards live under the shadow of an old stone tower, which was built to afford the countryside a wonderful view of the sea to the distance.

Mrs. Barnard tells Miss Craigie the history of Ian Barr. The old uncle of Sir Ian Hereward married an Italian opera singer. They separated, and then, without learning whether his first wife was alive or not, Sir Ian married an Irish peasant girl. She gave him a son by them, the boy taking the name of Barr when he learned that his father's first wife was alive. Ian Barr married with old Sir Ian when Ian and Barr learned of his father's deception, and when Ian died Sir Ian refused to have left to Ian Hereward, a nephew, when he died and Sir Ian tried to get Ian Barr to accept the fortune, but the latter always gently but resolutely persuaded him take the place of steward on the estate.

Miss Craigie goes, and shortly after, ward Sir Ian appears and asks for Tom. His face is white, and he cries that his wife has been killed. When Tom comes home, he and the rower, whom the former had found the body of his wife, leave for the scene of the killing. Ian also tells of finding Miss Ricardo at his home. He says that his wife knew Miss Ricardo years before and that he had met her in India.

He tells of going to seek his wife and finding her body. He had met no one on the way and he suspects no one of having killed her, unless it was Lady Hereward. Then the coroner asks:

"Have you any hostility or affectionate terms with Lady Hereward?"

THEY hung on his answer. But when it came, it was entirely common place.

"We were always on the best of terms during thirteen years of married life."

There was no quaver of his voice, no distortion of the face to account for the sudden rush and ebb of blood. It had seemed a tell-tale change of color, following as it did upon such a question, which to some form or other he must have expected, and was like the silent revealing of a black secret guessed by none. Yet what could be made out of the reply?

There was a ring of truth in it and the query appeared to be fully answered. Yet there was a dim impression of something wrong, something hidden, something in the words more or less than met the ear. "Thirteen years of married life"—ten years of married life." What could any coroner or juror ask beyond that?

The coroner, at all events, was not intend to ask anything further of importance for the present. He let Sir Ian Hereward go, after a few questions concerning the theory of the robbery, and called Mrs. Barnard, frightened and anxious, but more at ease than she would have been in the hands of any other questioner. Before Mr. Samways became coroner he had been the favorite doctor of the farming people and had brought Pepper into the world.

Clearly and truthfully Rose gave the history of her afternoon—the afternoon of the murder. How she had been in the arbor, with her little daughter, and Kate Craigie had come, and at about 4 o'clock they had heard two shots. which Kate had thought sounded queer.

How Kate had gone home a little later, and after tea—oh, a good while after—when she was washing up the dishes, Sir Ian had made Pepper scream out by suddenly appearing, covered with blood, but not covered; she hadn't meant that. To say "covered" was a great exaggeration. She had spoken impulsively, as women will.

Sir Ian had been very much agitated, stammering out something about her ladyship being in the Tower, dead; and he wished to find Barnard, who used to serve under him in the army before Sir Ian came into his title, and got Tom his present position through his influence with Mrs. Forestier.

Why, yes, of course Barnard owed Sir Ian a big debt of gratitude, and would do anything for him, so he was natural the poor gentleman should go there before anywhere else. Besides, the farmhouse was near. But, unfortunately, Barnard was away, so she had to do the best she could.

And Sir Ian wouldn't wait for Tom. He must push back to the woods, where her poor ladyship was lying dead, at her own as awful thing to Rose that he should have to be there with the dead body of his wife, all alone, and nobody to help him bear his grief and horror.

Kate was called, after Rose, describing her impression of the two shots, and inclining to be somewhat sensational, as servants will. She had been fond of her mistress, in a jealously passionate, ill regulated way, yet she thoroughly enjoyed giving evidence. She felt herself of immense importance, and the wish to be first with every one who approached was almost a mania with Kate Craigie, though she was unconscious of this peculiarity in herself.

When asked on what terms Sir Ian Hereward lived with his wife, she knew that all eyes were fastened upon her. She smiled archly at the coroner, after which could hold the interest she was arousing, something more than she had already said to Rose.

"I think her ladyship was more in love with Sir Ian than he was with her," Kate replied, in a brief flirtatious way. "Leastwise, that's my opinion, if you'll excuse my freedom."

Still, she reminded herself, it was not only her duty to tell the truth, but the whole truth.

"What do you mean by that?" inquired the coroner sternly.

Now indeed, Kate must justify herself! She replied that her ladyship thought of nothing but to look well in her husband's eyes, and pleasing him with her style and dress, and way of doing her hair. If he didn't like a thing she wore, that was the end of it forever.

Hence, her ladyship's French maid, into whose place she (Kate) had stepped ten weeks ago, was very clever about that sort of thing, and took advantage of her mistress's peculiarity in her own interest. If Lilian fancied a hat, for instance, she would say, "Oh, small," or am more in the way he looked at you in it, Sir Ian decided soon in the day that it was far too polite to say so. He only turned his eyes away.

Philadelphia Woman Always Keeps Resinol on Hand

Finds It Effective and Very Valuable as a Skin Remedy

Nothing is more efficacious for skin diseases than Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. They act quickly and easily and their continued use means a perfect skin. Read what this woman says:

"I replied to your offer to send a sample of Resinol Soap sent me some time ago. It is a very fine article, and I shall enjoy its use in the future. I am also a user of Resinol Ointment, and consider it very valuable to keep on hand. I have found it very effective."

(Mrs. P. M. Kirk) Philadelphia, Pa.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are jewels in hygienic value and marvels of cost-effectiveness—both the ointment which they are recommended. They are indispensable in the toilet and nursery, and thoroughly appreciated by those who regard a good complexion, beautiful hair and a scalp free from dandruff and scurf. Every form of skin disease could be cured in the incipiency by the prompt and judicious use of Resinol Ointment. As an application for burns, scalds, abrasions and minor injuries and inflammation of the skin, it is better than anything else. Both the soap and ointment should be kept in all well-regulated households—the one for the daily bath and the other for such accidents and incidents as are likely to occur. Samples sent free. The ointment and soap are sold at all drug stores. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

The villainous Desmond is about to meet with condign punishment. When the hammer of the pile driver falls he will drop head first upon the pile, there to be crushed to death. However, passing to the second picture we see the pile resting upon something at the bottom of the sea. The something is a giant octopus, one of the most heartless creatures in existence. And yet in this case its presence is to save the worthless life of the scoundrel Desmond, for see, the octopus is aided by its fellows, which seize the pile in their powerful tentacles and drag it aside.

Whizz goes the hammer through the air as Claude releases the rope, but the villain escapes, as the pile is pulled out of his path by his unwitting allies. In the meantime, the Wild Men have sighted Desmond's hat on the floating pile and are swarming to his aid.

What a terrible sight is presented to the picture on the right! Claude and his beautiful Rosamond, in their desperate flight from the bloodthirsty Wild Men and their ruthless leader, Desmond, have made their way to the top of a mountain. Ethelric horror, they discover at the summit that they have climbed an active volcano. And yet the fact has once and for all settled the matter a death to the union of burning lava than to fall into the hands of the fiendish Wild Men and their black hearted leader. "I'm a boy!" cries Desperate Desmond, as he ascends the mountain. What can happen? Tune in next week and we shall see.

Synopsis of Preceding Instalments.

GUSTAV LINGG, wireless operator on the steamer Landsun, goes ashore for a stroll while his ship is loading at her dock in New York and becomes lost when a dense fog sweeps up from the bay. On a side street he meets a beautiful young woman, whom he has never seen before and who calls him by name. "I want to talk with you," she says. "I must talk with you—alone."

Lingg, aboused, stares at her foolishly for a moment and then turns and flees. He goes a long way and finally, just as a ferry whistle tells him that he is nearing the river, he enters a narrow street, only to find his way blocked by a cab, a cab with an open door.

In the cab sits the woman from whom he had fled. "I wanted to warn you," she says, and makes him enter the cab.

"Of what?" he asks, as the cab starts.

"Not to sail on the Landsun."

He asks why not and she replies that it will not be safe. He apparently doubts her and she pleads with him. Finally she kisses him to kiss her, and as he draws away from her, throws her arms around his neck. In the midst of his struggles the door of the cab opens and a man drags him into the street. A crowd gathers and a policeman appears, who begins cuffing the assailant. Then another man appears, who flings off the policeman and puts the dazed operator back into the cab, calling out to the driver:

"To the police station, straight!"

The man who had attacked the operator then tells the bewildered policeman that the man who has just driven off in the cab with Lingg is one of Wilde's spies and that the woman is also in the secret service.

The scene changes to the deck of the steamship Landsun. A big-shouldered man in a raincoat wants to send a message, but the operator tells him the wireless apparatus is out of order and that he can't do any sending until he fixes it.

The captain calls to the operator to hurry up and get his apparatus in shape. Through the mist can be seen an approaching warship. The man in the raincoat paces the deck, now and then stopping to glance in at the wireless apparatus. He finally dies a couple of messages with the operator, signing them Michael Duffy.

The next day the man hangs around the wireless cabin again after asking if there have been any replies to his message. The operator explains to him the workings of the wireless system and the stranger says he wants to send a message to New Orleans to inquire when a shipment of oil and mill shafting left that port.

The stranger inquires about the warship and the operator says she is bound for Culebra, off Porto Rico, having been ordered south on account of the Colombian trouble.

"Ever made this trip before?" asks the stranger.

"Never on this sub," is McKinnon's response.

McKinnon confides in the stranger that he is working on an invention, but that models cost money and he has to go slow.

After beating around the bush for a while, the stranger finally asks McKinnon if he would like to make a few thousand sum by helping him out of a hole. He says that he represents the Consolidated Fruit Concern, which has big interests in Hocombia, where a revolution threatens. He says also that Ganley, the famous gun runner and fomenter of revolutions, is on the ship. He wants the operator to hold up any message which may come for the man Ganley, who, he says, is boarding under the name of Siebert, until he has had a chance to see them. He asks if he can accidently miss a message, or send one out without being sure that it would be clear across to the next operator. He offers him a thousand dollars to do the asks and gives him three twenties to bind the bargain.

TO-DAY'S INSTALMENT

"I Hate to lie about my machinery," retorted the operator with what seemed a blind and foolish pride in his tools.

The older man's curl of lip showed a slowly mounting dislike for further argument. Then he lifted his wide shoulders with a movement of resignation.

"Of course, I don't want you to lose either your job or your self-respect just because my official duty's been making a shadow a man."

Thick Weather

The wireless operator seemed groping about for an answer when the quietness of the ship was broken by a sudden sound. It was the Lamidun's foghorn, hoarse and mournful through the darkness, tearing the quiet with its slowly repeated call. The two men stood side by side listening, as the bass-noted complaint was repeated.

"We're running into thick weather," said the operator, turning to take up his earphones. The two men, humored in their own ends and aims, had lost all thought of time and environment.

A moment later heavy footsteps sounded on the deck and the captain appeared in the doorway. He stood in the narrow opening, red-nosed, goose-like, with the white light glistening on his waterproofed figure.

"Are you keeping an ear open for every thing in there?" he demanded, with a scowl of disapproval at the man beside the steam-chair.

"I'm listening for anything," McKinnon answered, with that "no" over his head. The door shut again. McKinnon turned back to the littered pine table.

The foghorn sounded and grew silent, the dynamo purred and buzzed as the starting-box lever crossed down on the contact pins.

The stranger beside the steamer-chair buttoned his coat. Then he crossed the cabin and turned back to peer at the operator, bent low over his table as he called and listened, and called again.

"So I can count on you in this?" he asked in his quiet and reassuring guttural. His hand was already on the cabin door-knob.

"To the finish" answered the other man pregnantly, replacing his earphones and holding them close to his head with his muffling handkerchiefs.

The Second Visitor

McKinnon was oppressed by the thought that he hour was late and his body benumbed. But he did not close communication with the Royal Mail operator who had "picked him up" through the fog until he had been duly warned of heavy weather southeast of Hatteras.

Through the night came also the news that one of the Royal Mail passengers, an American Consul from Argyll, had broken his thigh-bone against a bulkhead, and the Lamidun was asked to relay the news to New York. This meant a call for ambulance and doctors to be at the landing wharf, together with an order to have a hospital room made ready.

So the key was kept busy again while the beneficent messages were sent well. Behind her stood a stewardess, fat and pitiful, carrying a cloak with the outward and studious solicitude of a nervous nature exalted in the consciousness of having been overlapped. She would have put an kind figure, the operator felt, for the nurse of the Capulets.

No More Gray Hair

Let Us Restore the Natural Color of Your Hair Free

After years of experimenting we have at last found a pure and simple color restorer for the hair that with one application will restore the natural, youthful color to gray or faded hair.

Our instantaneous hair-color-restorer is not a dye, but a clear, clean tonic that positively restores gray hair to its natural color. It contains no silver, lead, sulphur or other poisons.

It is easy to apply; no after-shampooing; makes the hair soft and fluffy; restores natural color; takes years from your looks in a few minutes.

Write to-day for our free treatment and enclose 10c in stamps or silver to help pay postage and packing. Large sized bottle enough for several weeks, $1.00; money back if not satisfactory. Hegy Loftis Co., Dept. 56, Syracuse, N. Y.

Anty Drudge Explains Why.

Mrs. Don'tcare—"Yes, but soap is soap, and it doesn't matter which we use."

Anty Drudge—"Yes, and medicine is medicine, but it does matter which kind you take. And it is the same way with soap. Some will do the work and some won't. I know from experience that Fels-Naptha is the only kind of soap that will wash things as clean in cold or lukewarm water. It isn't just soap; it is a different and easier way of washing."

"Soap is soap" said a woman. Her only idea of soap was something to mix with hot water in order to make a steaming suds. She thought it didn't matter which kind she used—and it didn't.

But if she had used Fels-Naptha in the way it should be used, in cold or lukewarm water, she would have learned that Fels-Naptha is not only a soap but a different way of washing.

A sewing machine is of no use to a woman who doesn't know how to use it. Neither is any other labor-saving device.

Before you use a cake of Fels-Naptha, then, read carefully the directions printed on the back of the red and green wrapper. The directions will tell you how to make Fels-Naptha do the hardest part of your washing, without hot fires, without steaming suds, without boiling or back-breaking hard labor. It will save your clothes, save time, save fuel, save your health and the clothes will be cleaner and whiter than ever before.

But not unless you use it the Fels-Naptha way. Look for the red and green wrapper.

STEAD TALKS WITH SULTAN

By W. T. STEAD.

PERA Constantinople, July 26—I have fulfilled the most difficult part of the commission intrusted to me by the International News Service and achieved a result which has not only interviewed the Sultan, Mehmed V., but have had a longer and more intimate political talk with him than he has had with anyone since he became Sultan.

I received a letter from Loufti, the First Chamberlain of the Sultan, which read:

"His Majesty hopes that you and the Countess of Stanfrapde (the Imperial Majesty will be pleased to receive you today at Pera Dolma Bagtiche Palace."

Punctually at 6 o'clock last evening I presented myself at the palace and was ushered into the chamberlain's room. Loufti, who speaks English fluently, acted as interpreter, as the Sultan speaks only Turkish only. After cigarettes, sherbet and coffee were served, and the Sultan, a China cuspe, set in silvery holders thickly crusted with diamonds. I was ushered into the presence of the Sultan, commander of the Faithful and Caliph of God.

He is a short, heavily-built Turk, sixty-seven years old, with a grey beard and straggly short white beard. His face is not expressive, with somewhat dull grey eyes. He was wearing a blue suit and was dressed in European clothes, with no decorations.

Being seated, his majesty was pleased to express his pleasure at my visit, and thanked him for enabling me to congratulate the first constitutional sovereign reigning in Turkey. The Sultan said he had always been in favor of a constitution and was determined to maintain it. Thus began an unprecedented conversation, which, before I closed, touched upon all politics questions of domestic and foreign policy.

Sultan Interviewed.

Loufti translated faithfully, never attempting at the hardest moments to correct my surprise. I got on famously with His Majesty, who seemed much interested in my exposition of the duties and privileges of constitutional sovereigns in general and the Sultan in particular.

Seldom have I had greater liberty of utterance, and never have I availed myself of it more frankly, excepting in interviews with Czars.

The Sultan was interested and attentive and thanked me warmly for coming to see him.

"I see you are a man of good conscience," he exclaimed, "and I had expounded my views on Turkey's relations to Germany and England after you had expressed most admirable sentiments opposed to the policy of Russian annexation. I congratulated him on being so much wiser than his ministers. He interpreted and he hope that I wouldn't find occasion to censure his generals for offending. I assured him I would always do so faithfully, feeling that I was hereby doing my best to aid His Majesty in giving effect to the humanitarian sentiments he had then expressed. But as I had never hesitated to condemn British generals when they had committed error, I should mete out the same measure to Turkish generals under similar circumstances.

Prefers "Favorite Wife."

At one point the conversation took a curious turn, raising the question whether monogamy or polygamy was the best. Is a polygamous harem there should be one favorite wife or whether all should be treated equally. The Sultan seemed to prefer the favorite wife system.

The Boer War and South African settlement came up to illustrate that thorough loyalty to sovereign could be secured by resistance to their unwise advisers.

But it is impossible to do justice in a telegram to one of the most remarkable interviews I ever had in my life.

All political interests, however, are overshadowed by the burning question of the residential seat of Constantinople.

In Monday morning's telegram I under estimated the extent of the conflagration. I spent three hours to-day going around the burned districts. The official estimate of the number of houses destroyed varies from 3,000 to 7,000. The American Relief House people to-day estimate that 20,000 families are homeless. The Sultan is grievously affected by the catastrophe, and has countermanded the grand reception given by the princes on the Bosphorus, and has ordered that no hand play in the palace for three days.

I told His Majesty of an appeal I forwarded to the International News Service for charitable help in meeting this appalling calamity. His Majesty said he was profoundly moved by such evidence of warm-hearted sympathy from distant nations, and that the noble things proved the reality of human brotherhood. He learned from the humanitarian that the Sultan had subscribed $2,500 to the relief fund.

Fire Victims Suffering.

The sufferers are of all nationalities, Armenians and Jews being the greatest sufferers. It is difficult to enable my readers to understand the full extent of the calamity. There were two fires. One swept away all the buildings, principally wooden houses in an area of one mile long and a half mile wide. Thousands and thousands of people lost their all, and piteous scenes of squalid misery are apparent on every side.

The few poor remnants of household goods saved from the fire and the clothes were being carted away in ox wagons to-day. About 2 o'clock this morning the fires were raised. From the Galata bridge I could see at the outset the whole of ancient Stamboul, near the water's edge, a dense volume of black smoke, above which had broaken out at Aleun Serai and was reported to have burned the whole hospital. Soon the fierce flames appeared, eating red gaps into the black pall of cloud. As the wind was driving city-ward, the fire spread in that direction and threatened to advance to Pharna, the seat of the Greek patriarch. Fortunately after many hours of conflagration, during which 1,000 houses were destroyed, the wind died down and the fire abated.

Dangerous reports are current as to the political object of incendiarism. If these are to be believed measures may occur at any moment. It is reported that the strong arm, Mahmud Shefket, the Minister of War, he, practically will be confined in his room for several days owing to the fall of a wall on him in his head from a burning building while he was directing the fight against the spread of the fire.

RACING ON OLD ORCHARD BEACH

By J. C. KERRISON.

The business people of Old Orchard are endeavoring to hold a three-day motor carnival on the beach of that resort during the latter part of August, the dates being to make Old Orchard Beach the northern Ormond.

The business interests have taken hold of the matter in a thorough business-like manner and will arrange a program and prizes which, it is believed, will attract one of the most prominent fields of automobilistic developments.

The beach is admittedly a hard, fast stretch, and for three miles there is nothing which will prevent a car from traveling at its height of speed. While it is not expected that any such records as those created at Daytona and Ormond can be established on the Maine beach, there is no question but what some fast speed work can be attempted with safety to the driver and spectators.

An application for sanction for motor cycle as well as automobile events is to be applied for by those interested and the meeting will be under the auspices of the A. A. A.

The date of the meeting will be so arranged as not to conflict in any degree with the attendance of the men at the Eighth meet on August 25 and 26. In fact the intention is to make the Old Orchard meet a curtain raiser for the big Western meet in order to permit the drivers therein to come East and participate in this event.

The prizes will be in order for all events; there will be a series of stock races so that the amateur will have an opportunity to show what can be done in his class.

The management of the meet is in the hands of W. T. Kincaid, who is personally acquainted with all of the famous drivers and who is now in correspondence with the drivers and manufacturers.

Ray B. Wiggins of the Velie Boston branch has just started on a complete tour of the New England States in one of the latest series of Velie touring cars.

Mr. Wiggins will visit every agency and agency and maintenance department throughout the New England States.

The object of the trip is to bring the Velie policy closer to the motor car owners of New England.

ARGENTINA SHIPS NOT FOR FOREIGN POWER

QUINCY, July 26.—Captain Diogenes Agarre, head of the Argentine Naval Commission at the Fore River shipyards supervising the construction of the Rivadavia, denied that there was any mystery about the ship and said the Argentine Republic would own and keep it. Captain Agarre said: "The printed story of an international mystery was evidently concocted in the brain of a sensationalist for the benefit of the diplomats of our Southern brothers. Why should the Argentines have two battleships? The sister ships, when they have been completed, will be the largest afloat, but Argentina has no reason for her as you know.

The object of the trip is to bring the Velie policy closer to the motor car owners of New England.

HYDE PARK BUSINESS MEN ON AN OUTING

Two hundred and fifty members of the Hyde Park Business Men's Association went to Nantasket on their annual outing. The day was spent in games and athletic contests, with many races and a ball game, the diamond contest being won by teams representing Everett and Cherry squad. Many prizes were given by Hyde Park on account of the outing. The committee in charge included John F. Johnstone, Fred W. Boynton, Thomas F. Kennedy, James E. Sheridan and Fred A. Kennedy.

PETRIFIED RAT IS FOUND IN CEILING

MERRIMAC, July 26.—While at work wiring the residence of Mrs. C. E. Little on Main street, William C. Russell found the petrified body of a rat between the ceiling and floor of an upper story. The rat was well preserved. The head was slightly mishaped and the body was nice and long. Just what caused petrification is unknown, though some believe the fact that chestnut action was in some manner brought to bear on the body.

MANY EVENTS AT PARISH REUNION

The big feature of the annual reunion and field day of All Saints' Church, Roxbury, at Amory Grove, Amory street, Roxbury Saturday, will be the athletic tournament, in which will appear some of the finest athletes from all parts of New England. The events are open to all, and it is expected that a number of records will be broken.

DIES OF JOY WHILE BOUND TO REUNION

NEW HAVEN, Ct., July 26.—Near the end of his journey to his daughter in Bridgeport, whom he hadn't seen for eighteen years, William Wordey of Northampton, Mass., dropped dead in the New Haven depot. The shock of the joyful thought of seeing his daughter is believed to have caused his death.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STOCKS STEADY DESPITE SCARE

NEW YORK, July 6.—A steadier tone prevailed in the stock market to-day and traders inclined to the belief that the heavy liquidation had given the market a stronger position technically through the creation of a story interest. Unfavorable news effect to a large extent by constructive developments. The opening changes were largely the result of professional trading.

Upon consistent buying, Missouri Pacific showed a strong tone after opening 1/8 higher; Pennsylvania was also firm. Despite the favorable report of United States Steel for the quarter ending June 30, this issue opened off ¼. Declines of ¼ were also recorded in Amalgamated Copper, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Southern railway. Reading, Canada and the Erles were unchanged.

The developments of importance in the market and the continental bourses over the Moroccan situation was felt in a degree in the New York market, on the other hand, favorable impressions were created by the announcement that Lehigh Valley had hit upon a plan to divorce the coal from the railroad business. Prior gains to ¼ to ½ were recorded in Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Southern railway. Reading, Canada and the Erles were unchanged.

The developments of importance in the market and the continental bourses over the Moroccan situation was felt in a degree in the New York market, on the other hand, favorable impressions were created by the announcement that Lehigh Valley had hit upon a plan to divorce the coal from the railroad business. Prior gains to ¼ to ½ were recorded in Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Southern railway. Reading, Canada and the Erles were unchanged.

The market leaders were in good demand. A good demand for Lehigh Valley sent it, and that issue advanced a full point within a few minutes, becoming the strongest stock in the list. Union Pacific moved steadily with a 2-point advance to the highest old. All shares and consols in the London market were under pressure as a result of the Moroccan crisis, and the American issues were carried down with the others. The tone was slightly easier.

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

A year ago to-day saw the culmination of low prices which ended with a general smash and the lowest prices of the year. Steel broke to 61¾, Smelters to 61⅝, Erie to 19½, Great Northern preferred to 118, Louisville to 131½, Missouri Pacific to 41, New York Central to 103½, Pennsylvania to 122⅝, Reading to 150½, Southern Pacific to 103 and Union Pacific to 152¾. Northern Pacific broke to 122, but touched 111⅝ on August 3.

$ $ $

Action of the stock market is a demonstration of the principle that the same fact cannot be discounted twice. More than a year ago the Interstate Commerce Commission decided that the railroads must not charge more for a short haul than for a long one. The market discounted it at that time. When the same decision was reaffirmed yesterday professional traders began selling stocks freely, but the decision had been discounted once, and the rebound was as swift as the break.

$ $ $

Perhaps one of the reasons for the small influence that the Interstate Commerce decision had on prices was the fact that an appeal probably will be taken. But even if the decision stands it is not of great importance to the stock market. An expert figures that the reduction in rates that will result from the ruling will, on the basis of the tonnage now being handled by the railroads, cut earnings of Union Pacific $2,000,000 a year, which is 1 per cent. on the common stock. It will mean a loss of about $1,500,000 to the 15 roads affected. Northern and Southern Pacific, as tonnage is running light just now, and as greater traffic will develop as business revives, it is safe to say this decision will be forgotten in half a year.

$ $ $

If is now said that Lehigh Valley will organize in the near future a coal company under the laws of Pennsylvania which will purchase in Pennsylvania all the coal produced by the Lehigh Valley Railroad. It is that State. Stock of this company will be distributed as a dividend to the shareholders of Lehigh Valley. This will end the Interstate Commerce feature of the coal business by Lehigh Valley. If Lehigh does this, then Reading will do likewise.

$ $ $

Total dividend and interest disbursements for August will be the smallest of the year, being $82,500,000, which is $1,500,000 less than in August, 1910. Dividends approximately half held the low record. Compared with July, 1911, there is a gain of about $1,500,000, made up entirely of interest on bond interest. Dividends show a falling off of approximately $3,000,000.

$ $ $

Speculation has made many a bold mar ket, but is not making this one. The professional desire to be out of the Stock Exchange trades in and out day after day. Stocks are making prices at all, although

Parents Have NOT the Right to Decide on Treatment for Their Children

They Can Decide as They Please on the Child's Religion, Not on the Care of the Child's Body. That Is a Matter for the General Wisdom and Science to Decide

Copyright, 1911, by American-Journal Examiner

This newspaper has advocated and does advocate the establishment of a public department of health under the management of the National Government.

The Government and the people of the United States, spending millions to tell farmers how to care for young pigs, horses, chickens and geese, should spend some money telling mothers and fathers how to care for their children—and, if necessary, compelling proper care of those that need care.

This wise measure has been opposed by many that do not understand it, and by many others that have good reasons for fearing science and intelligent action.

Some of those that hate the idea of a department of health are well-meaning dreamers who amuse themselves by saying that there is no disease—until disease comes. Then they die or send for a doctor.

Others make money by exploiting the diseases, terrors and sorrows of humanity and fear the spread of knowledge.

Among those that oppose the public health department is one who writes as follows:

"You speak of the great good that the Government does through the departments that give to the farmers information regarding the care of their various animals, all of which is perfectly true and a great work, and then of the lack of interest displayed by the same Government in caring for the health of the children. But it does not seem to me that the cases are parallel, because in the case of the animals, they, being dumb brutes, must take whatever kind of care is given to them without any choice in the matter, but when it comes to a human being he, or she, is absolutely entitled to the right to choose for himself, or herself, what method of treatment he, or she, desires. Or in the case of children, the parents have the right to make this choice, as we certainly are entitled to the inalienable right when it comes to the selection of our medical school as we are in selecting our religion. And should this department of health be established it would without doubt be run absolutely by physicians of the allopathic school, and they would have, of course, the medical laws so framed as to make it impossible for you to employ a method of treatment that did not correspond to their views."

In reply to this we beg to say, first, that the public would not for a moment tolerate a law telling the people to adopt and submit themselves to treatment by any medical school, allopathic or otherwise.

The Government does not compel the farmer to treat his hog or his cow or sheep if the farmer does not want to. The farmer is allowed to let the animal die.

BUT HE IS NOT ALLOWED TO LET HIS ANIMALS ENDANGER THE LIVES OF THE ANIMALS OF HIS NEIGHBORS. HE ISN'T ALLOWED TO LET HIS OWN CONCEIT OR FOOLISH NOTIONS ENDANGER THE PROSPERITY OR HEALTH OF OTHERS.

Similarly, a department of health devoted to the interest of human beings would not compel the adult man or woman to adopt any school or treatment.

But that department would do in a national way what the city and State departments of health do now. It would not permit the crackbrained theorist denying the existence of disease, or the careless, indifferent idiot to endanger the lives of others.

The health department would say to the citizen:

"If it is your pleasure to die of consumption you may do so. If you wish to die of smallpox you may do so; that is your business. But you shall not spread consumption among others if we can prevent it, and you shall not spread the smallpox."

A department of health would give advice, it would prevent the spreading of disease, and no sane person could object.

In regard to children, we deny the statement of our correspondent that the parent has the right to treat the children medically as he sees fit, and that the choice of medical treatment is the same as the choice of religious doctrine.

A man has the right to teach his children what religion he pleases—that right is guaranteed to him by the Constitution. Later on the child can change if it wishes. Meanwhile the fact that the child is a Mohammedan, an agnostic, an atheist, a Christian Scientist, a Catholic, a Protestant, a Zoroastrian, a Confucian, a Buddhist or what not makes no difference to the general welfare.

Religions, unlike diseases, are not catching. And if a parent chooses to inculcate religious doctrines, truthful or false, that doesn't do any harm to the community.

With disease and with the practice of medicine it is different.

The child is entitled to the protection which is offered to it by the progress of science.

Our correspondent knows that in China, for instance, the ignorant natives refuse to be treated when they have the plague. They die in heaps, and their children die because they won't let them be treated.

Does our correspondent think it wise to permit human beings and children to die in this way?

Our correspondent is aware of the fact that the Indians, when they see a child dying, send for the medicine man. This medicine man weaves his body back and forth in front of the child, or holds up some ridiculous charm, and sits there placidly while the child dies or gets well.

Does our correspondent think that the Government would be wise to allow children to die in this fashion if they had diphtheria, smallpox or other diseases that everybody knows require sane, scientific treatment?

Grown people may die if they choose; they may refuse to eat or wear clothing if they want to. But they cannot refuse to give their children the treatment which the most advanced science prescribes.

Many parents have contested in the courts the theory that it is illegal to allow a child to die without care, and such parents have learned to their cost that medicine and religion are two different things.

A national bureau of health would be chiefly advisory, answering questions, spreading information, preventing the spread of contagious diseases. And once established not even the most crack-brained dreamer or the most selfish exploiter of disease would really advocate discontinuing it.

WE AREN'T GOING SO BLAMED FAST! WHAT MAKES YOU SO CONFOUNDED FIDGETTY TODAY?
I AINT FIDGETTY HIRAM, I JUST DON'T LIKE THIS HERE JOY SPEEDIN'!
NOW! YOU SEE? LITTLE MORE AND YOU'D HAVE WRECKED THAT TRAIN!
HUH! THAT ENGINEER KNOWS HIS BUSINESS AND I KNOW MINE! DONT WORRY!
THINK HOW MANY PEOPLE YOU'D HAVE KILLED IF YOU HADN'T STOPPED IN TIME!
WHAT YOU TRYIN TO DO! WATCH WHERE YOU'RE GOIN'!
HIRAM, HE IS WATCHIN'! IT'S YOU WHO SHOULD WATCH OUT!
YOU ARE A REGULAR DARE DEVIL DRIVER! AN ALWAYS WAS SOME DAY YOU'LL KILL SOMEBODY.
AN' GET ARRESTED, I SUPPOSE! WE ARE GOING ONLY A MILE AN' A HALF AN HOUR! THAT'S NOT FAST!
'TIS TOO HI! AN' YOU KNOW IT IS! YOU'LL RUN INTO SOME BODY AND GET ARREST SURE! MY!
HUH! IT'S HIS FAULT NOT MINE!
I CAN PROVE I WAS NOT SPEEDIN'!
CAN'T HELP IT! COME WITH ME TO THE LOCK UP AN' SEE THE JUSTICE!
WAKE UP, MA! WE'RE GETTIN' CLOSE TO HUM!
GRACIOUS! I'M GLAD YOU WOKE ME! I DREAMED WE WERE ARRESTED FOR SPEEDIN'!

The World Wants Vital, Forceful, Active, Determined Men and Women to Do Its Work

Whatever Any Person Desires, if It Is Based on Common Sense and Is Persistently and Fervently Sought, Can Be Obtained; It Is What One Feels and Thinks That Counts

USE all your hidden forces. Do not miss
The purpose of this life, and do not wait
For instance to mould or change your fate.
In yourself live Destiny. Let this
Vast truth cast out all fear, all prejudice,
All hesitation. Know that you are great,
Great with divinity. Be dominate
Environment, and enter into bliss.
Love largely and hate nothing. Hold no aim
That does not chord with universal good,
Hear what the voices of the Silence say,
All joys are yours if you put forth your claim.
Once let the spiritual laws be understood,
Material things must answer and obey.

THERE was a woman who found herself at fifty years of age a widow with a family of half grown children. And no income.

She had always written little stories to entertain her children, and so she set about trying to write better stories to amuse and entertain the public.

The fact that she had lived almost a half a century did not discourage her. Because of this fact, she believed she had a wider understanding of human nature, and of herself. In the face of innumerable discouragements, she persevered; and before many months she had sold her first manuscript.

Since then she has become a woman of wealth, and her books are always among the best sellers of the season.

This woman possessed talent; she could never have succeeded had not this stock of talent been in her mind, on which to build the structure she reared by unremitting labor.

But hundreds of women equally talented would have looked to relatives or charity organizations for assistance, saying they were "too old" to begin a new career.

A man died a few years ago and left a fortune to be divided among his children.

Besides the fortune he left a well-established and successful business.

But he began at the bottom of the ladder once more, and although of delicate physique and not over strong, he climbed far above the middle of that ladder before he reached the age of sixty.

He wasted no time in regretting his past mistakes.

He simply used them as stepping stones to future successes.

He knew the things to avoid doing.

It has become the fashion of the day to say that the world does not want mature men and women in business.

The world wants any man in any position where he can prove himself a power. The world wants vital, forceful, active, determined men and women.

If you have allowed yourself to grow old-fashioned in your ideas and phlegmatic and dull, if you have lost your interest in life and are seeking a way to go through the world mechanically and make a mere living, then do not wonder that you are not wanted when you seek a position or attempt to find a place in the busy world.

Many times we hear people say, "I ask so little of life, it seems as if that little might be granted."

But the man who asks little, usually gets little after little obtaining it; while the man who asks much, TRIES MUCH to obtain his wishes.

It is what you feel, and THINK that counts.

Whatever you desire, if it is based on common sense, and is PERSISTENTLY AND FERVENTLY SOUGHT, you can obtain.

It is not strength, but art, obtains the prize,
And to be swift is less than to be wise.

POPE.

Just for Instance

By PERCY SHAW

Pray imagine you are sitting far removed from city street; fanned by breezes idly flitting, all unburdened by the heat; sequestered from the papers; where the weather men are not; with waves a-cutting capers in a sweet mermaidish plot; not a collar to annoy you; no thought of subway ride; no hustle to destroy you; open novel by your side; no cars to creak and roar; no stealthy auto wheels; no odors from a store of sickly Summer meals; no use for hat or fan; no care for idle chat; no burning roof to scan; no sighing over fat; recollections pleasant for companions to make the ever present roseate of hue; then with grace to seal Summer's luring kiss, one long, effervescent, lasting drink of this.
